THE EDGE OF THE WIND

YE stars in ye skies seem twinkling
In icicles of light,
And ye edge of ye wind cuts keener
Than ever ye sword-edge might;
Ye footsteps crunch in ye courtway,
And ye trough and ye cask go "ping!"—
Ye china cracks in ye pantry,
And ye crickets cease to sing.

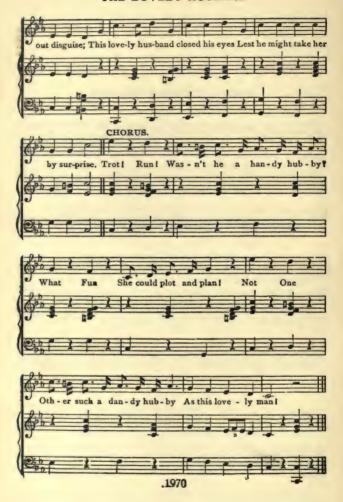

THE HIRED MAN'S FAITH IN CHILDREN

BELIEVE all children's good, Ef they're only understood,— Even bad ones, 'pears to me, 'S jes' as good as they kin be!

THE LOVELY HUSBAND

THE LOVELY HUSBAND

II

He answered at her least command: He fanned her, if she would be fanned; He vanished when she willed it.—And He always coughed behind his hand.

She held him in such high esteem
She let him dope her face with
"Cream,"—

He'd chink the wrinkles seam-by-seam, And call her "lovely as a dream!"

CHORUS

Hot

Bun!

Wasn't he a lovey-dovey?

What

Fun

She could plot and plan!

Not

One

Other such a dovey-lovey As this love-ly man!

III

Her lightest wishes he foreknew

And fell up-stairs to cater to:

He never failed to back from view,

Nor mispronounced Don't () you, "Doan chu."

He only sought to fill such space
As her friends left;—he knew his place:—
He praised the form she could not lace.—
He praised her face before her face!

CHORUS

Shot

Gun!

Wasn't he a lovely fellow?

What

Fun

She could plot and plan!

Not One

> Lonesome little streak of yellow In this love-ly man!

THREE SEVERAL BIRDS

The Romancer, the Poet, and the Bookman

Ι

THE ROMANCER

THE Romancer's a nightingale,—
The moon wanes dewy-dim
And all the stars grow faint and pale
In listening to him—
To him the plot least plausible
Is of the most avail,—
He simply masters it because
He takes it by the tale.

O he's a nightingale,—
His theme will never fail—
It gains applause of all—because
He takes it by the tale!

The Romancer's a nightingale:—
His is the sweetest note—
The sweetest, woe-begonest wail
Poured out of mortal throat:

So, glad or sad, he ever draws
Our best godspeed and hail;
He highest lifts his theme—because
He takes it by the tale.

O he's a nightingale,—
His theme will never fail—
It gains applause of all—because
He takes it by the tale!

II

THE POET

The bobolink he sings a single song,
Right along,—
And the robin sings another, all his own—
One alone;
And the whippoorwill, and bluebird,
And the cockadoodle-doo-bird;—
But the mocking-bird he sings in every tone
Ever known,
Or chirrup-note of merriment or moan.

So the Poet he's the mocking-bird of men,—
He steals his songs and sings them o'er again;
And yet beyond believing
They're the sweeter for his thieving.—
So we'll howl for Mister Mocking-bird
And have him out again!
H-1

It's mighty fond we are of bobolinks,
And chewinks;

And we dote on dinky robins, quite a few—Yes, we do:

And we love the dove, and bluebird, And the cockadoodle-doo-bird,—

But the mocking-bird's the bird for me and you, Through and through,

Since he sings as everybody wants him to.

Ho! the Poet he's the mocking-bird of men,—
He steals his songs and sings them o'er again;
And yet beyond believing
They're the sweeter for his thieving.—
So we'll howl for Mister Mocking-bird
And have him out again!

III

BOOKMAN'S CATCH

The Bookman he's a humming-bird—
His feasts are honey-fine,—
(With hi! hilloo!
And clover-dew
And roses lush and rare!)
His roses are the phrase and word

Of olden tomes divine;
(With hi! and ho!
And pinks ablow
And posies everywhere!)
H-2

The Bookman he's a humming-bird,—
He steals from song to song—
He scents the ripest-blooming rhyme,
And takes his heart along
And sacks all sweets of bursting verse
And ballads, throng on throng.

(With ho! and hey!

And brook and brae,
And brinks of shade and shine!)

A humming-bird the Bookman is-Though cumbrous, gray and grim,-(With hi! hilloo! And honey-dew And odors musty-rare!) He bends him o'er that page of his As o'er the rose's rim (With hi! and ho! And pinks aglow And roses everywhere!) Ay, he's the featest humming-bird,-On airiest of wings He poises pendent o'er the poem That blossoms as it sings-God friend him as he dips his beak In such delicious things! (Whith ho! and hev! And world away And only dreams for him!)

THE BED

Ι

THOU, of all God's gifts the best Blessed Bed!" I muse, and rest Thinking how it havened me
In my dazed Infancy—
Ere mine eyes could bear the kind Daylight through the window-blind, Or my lips, in yearning quest, Groping found the mother-breast, Or mine utterance but owned Minor sounds that sobbed and moaned.

II

Gracious Bed that nestled me
Even ere the mother's knee,—
Lulling me to slumber ere
Conscious of my treasure there—
Save the tiny palms that kept
Fondling, even as I slept,
That rare dual-wealth of mine,—
Softest pillow—sweetest wine!—
Gentlest cheer for mortal guest,
And of Love's fare lordliest.

III

By the grace, O Bed, the first
Blooms of Boyhood-memories burst:—
Dreams of riches, swift withdrawn
As I, wakening, find the dawn
With its glad Spring-face once more
Glimmering on me as of yore:
Then the bluebird's limpid cry
Lulls me like a lullaby,
Till falls every failing sense
Back to sleep's sheer impotence.

IV

Or, a truant, home again,—
With the moonlight through the pane,
And the kiss that ends the prayer—
Then the footsteps down the stair;
And the close hush; and far click
Of the old clock; and the thick
Sweetness of the locust-bloom
Drugging all the enchanted room
Into darkness fathoms deep
As mine own pure childish sleep.

V

Gift and spell, O Bed, retell Every lovely miracle— Up from childhood's simplest dream Unto manhood's pride supreme!— Sacredness no words express,— Lo, the young wife's fond caress Of her first-born, while beside Bends the husband, tearful-eyed, Marveling of kiss and prayer Which of these is holier there.

VI

Trace the vigils through the long,
Long nights, when the cricket's song
Stunned the sick man's fevered brain,
As he tossed and moaned in pain
Piteous—till thou, O Bed,
Smoothed the pillows for his head,
And thy soothest solace laid
Round him, and his fever weighed
Into slumber deep and cool,
And divinely merciful.

VII

Thus, O Bed, all gratefully I would ever sing of thee—
Till the final sleep shall fall O'er me, and the crickets call In the grasses where at last I am indolently cast
Like a play-worn boy at will.—
'Tis a Bed befriends me still—
Yea, and Bed, belike, the best,
Softest, safest, blessèdest.

HOME-FOLKS

HOME-FOLKS!—Well, that-air name, to me, Sounds jis the same as poetry—
That is, ef poetry is jis
As sweet as I've hearn tell it is!

Home-Folks—they're jis the same as kin—All brung up, same as we have bin, Without no over powerin' sense Of their oncommon consequence!

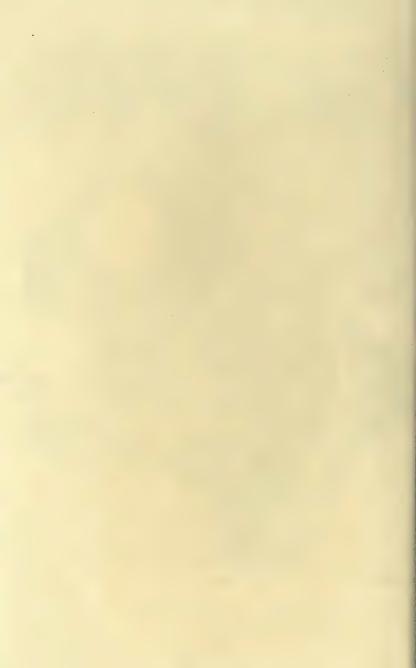

They've bin to school, but not to git The habit fastened on 'em yit So as to ever interfere With other work 'at's waitin' here:

Home-Folks has crops to plant and plow, Er lives in town and keeps a cow; But whether country-jakes er town-, They know when eggs is up er down!

La! can't you spot 'em—when you meet 'Em anywheres—in field er street? And can't you see their faces, bright As circus-day, heave into sight?

"Home folks! — well, that-air name, to me, Sounds jis the same as poetry"

And can't you hear their "Howdy!" clear As a brook's chuckle to the ear, And allus find their laughin' eyes As fresh and clear as morning skies?

And can't you—when they've gone away— Jis feel 'em shakin' hands, all day? And feel, too, you've bin higher raised By sich a meetin'?—God be praised!

Oh, Home-Folks! you're the best of all 'At ranges this terreschul ball,—
But, north er south, er east er west,
It's home where you're at your best.—

It's home—it's home your faces shine, In-nunder your own fig and vine— Your fambly and your neighbers 'bout Ye, and the latch-string hangin' out.

Home-Folks—at home,—I know o' one Old feller now 'at hain't got none.—
Invite him—he may hold back some—
But you invite him, and he'll come.

AMERICA'S THANKSGIVING

1900

F ATHER all bountiful, in mercy bear
With this our universal voice of prayer—
The voice that needs must be
Upraised in thanks to Thee,
O Father, from Thy children everywhere.

A multitudinous voice, wherein we fain
Wouldst have Thee hear no lightest sob of pain—
No murmur of distress,
Nor moan of loneliness,
Nor drip of tears, though soft as summer rain.

And, Father, give us first to comprehend,
No ill can come from Thee; lean Thou and lend
Us clearer sight to see
Our boundless debt to Thee,
Since all thy deeds are blessings, in the end.

And let us feel and know that, being Thine,
We are inheritors of hearts divine,
And hands endowed with skill,
And strength to work Thy will,
And fashion to fulfilment Thy design.

So, let us thank Thee, with all self aside, Nor any lingering taint of mortal pride;

As here to Thee we dare
Uplift our faltering prayer,
Lend it some fervor of the glorified.

Lend it some fervor of the glorined.

We thank Thee that our land is loved of Thee The blessed home of thrift and industry, With ever-open door

Of welcome to the poor—
Thy shielding hand o'er all abidingly.

Even thus we thank Thee for the wrong that grew Into a right that heroes battled to,

With brothers long estranged, Once more as brothers ranged Beneath the red and white and starry blue.

Ay, thanks—though tremulous the thanks expressed—

Thanks for the battle at its worst, and best—
For all the clanging fray
Whose discord dies away
Into a pastoral song of peace and rest.

TO EDMUND CLARENCE STEDMAN

THE AUTHOR'S CLUB RECEPTION, NEW YORK, DECEMBER 6, 1900

I T is a various tribute you command,
O Poet-seer and World-sage in one!—
The scholar greets you; and the student; and
The stoic—and his visionary son:
The painter, harvesting with quiet eye
Your features; and the sculptor, dreaming, too,
A classic marble figure, lifted high
Where Fame's immortal ones are waiting you.

The man of letters, with his wistful face;
The grizzled scientist; the young A. B.;
The true historian, of force and grace;
The orator, of pure simplicity;
The journalist—the editor, likewise;
The young war-correspondent; and the old
War-seasoned general, with sagging eyes,
And nerve and hand of steel, and heart of gold.

The serious humorist; the blithe divine;
The lawyer, with that twinkling look he wears;
The bleak-faced man in the dramatic line;
The social lion—and the bulls and bears;

These—these, and more, O favored guest of all,
Have known your benefactions, and are led
To pay their worldly homage, and to call
Down Heaven's blessings on your honored head.

Ideal, to the utmost plea of art—
As real, to labor's most exacting need—
Your dual services of soul and heart
Enrich the world alike in dream and deed:
For you have brought to us, from out the mine
Delved but by genius in scholastic soil,
The blended treasures of a wealth divine,—
Your peerless gift of song—your life of toil.

WHEN WE FIRST PLAYED "SHOW"

ASN'T it a good time,
Long Time Ago—
When we all were little tads
And first played "Show"—
When every newer day
Wore as bright a glow
As the ones we laughed away—
Long Time Ago!

Calf was in the back-lot;
Clover in the red;
Bluebird in the pear tree;
Pigeons on the shed;
Tom a-chargin' twenty pins
At the barn; and Dan
Spraddled out just like "The
'Injarubber'-Man!"

Me and Bub and Rusty,

Eck and Dunk, and Sid,
'Tumblin' on the sawdust

Like the A-rabs did;

Jamesy on the slack-rope
In a wild retreat,
Grappling back, to start again—
When he chalked his feet!

Wasn't Eck a wonder,
In his stocking-tights?
Wasn't Dunk—his leaping lion—
Chief of all delights?
Yes, and wasn't "Little Mack"
Boss of all the Show,—
Both Old Clown and Candy-Butcher—
Long Time Ago!

Sid the Bareback-Rider;
And—oh-me-oh-my!—
Bub, the spruce Ring-Master,
Stepping round so spry!—
In his little waist-and-trousers
All made in one,
Was there a prouder youngster
Under the sun!

And Now—who will tell me,—
Where are they all?

Dunk's a sanatorium doctor,
Up at Waterfall;

Sid's a city street-contractor;
Tom has fifty clerks;

And Jamesy he's the "Iron Magnate"
Of "The Hecla Works."

1988 WHEN WE FIRST PLAYED "SHOW"

And Bub's old and bald now,
Yet still he hangs on,—
Dan and Eck and "Little Mack,"
Long, long gone!
But wasn't it a good time,
Long Time Ago—
When we all were little tads
And first played "Show"!

WILLIAM PINKNEY FISHBACK

SAY first he loved the dear home-hearts, and then
He loved his honest fellow citizen—
He loved and honored him, in any post
Of duty where he served mankind the most.

All that he asked of him in humblest need Was but to find him striving to succeed; All that he asked of him in highest place Was justice to the lowliest of his race.

When he found these conditions, proved and tried, He owned he marveled, but was satisfied—Relaxed in vigilance enough to smile And, with his own wit, flay himself a while.

Often he liked real anger—as, perchance, The summer skies like storm-clouds and the glance Of lightning—for the clearer, purer blue Of heaven, and the greener old earth, too.

All easy things to do he did with care, Knowing the very common danger there; In noblest conquest of supreme debate The facts are simple as the victory great. That which had been a task to hardiest minds To him was as a pleasure, such as finds The captive-truant, doomed to read throughout The one lone book he really cares about.

Study revived him: Howsoever dim And deep the problem, 'twas a joy to him To solve it wholly; and he seemed as one Refreshed and rested as the work was done.

And he had gathered, from all wealth of lore That time has written, such a treasure-store, His mind held opulence—his speech the rare Fair grace of sharing all his riches there—

Sharing with all, but with the greatest zest Sharing with those who seemed the neediest; The young he ever favored; and through these Shall he live longest in men's memories.

A GOOD MAN

Ι

A GOOD man never dies—
In worthy deed and prayer
And helpful hands, and honest eyes,
If smiles or tears be there:
Who lives for you and me—
Lives for the world he tries
To help—he lives eternally.
A good man never dies.

II

Who lives to bravely take

His share of toil and stress,
And, for his weaker fellow's sake,
Makes every burden less,—
He may, at last, seem worn—
Lie fallen—hands and eyes
Folded—yet, though we mourn and mourn,
A good man never dies.

JOHN CLARK RIDPATH

TO the lorn ones who loved him first and best, And knew his dear love at its tenderest, We seem akin—we simplest friends who knew His fellowship, of heart and spirit too:

We who have known the happy summertide Of his ingenuous nature, glorified With the inspiring smile that ever lit The earnest face and kindly strength of it:

His presence, all-commanding, as his thought Into unconscious eloquence was wrought Until the utterance became a spell That awed us as a spoken miracle.

Learning, to him was native—was, in truth, The earliest playmate of his lisping youth, Likewise throughout a life of toil and stress, It was as laughter, health and happiness:

And so he played with it—joyed at its call—Ran rioting with it, forgetting all Delights of childhood, and of age and fame,—A devotee of learning, still the same!

In fancy, even now we catch the glance Of the rapt eye and radiant countenance, As when his discourse, like a woodland's stream, Flowed musically on from theme to theme: The skies, the stars, the mountains and the sea, He worshipped as their high divinity— Nor did his reverent spirit find one thing On earth too lowly for his worshiping.

The weed, the rose, the wildwood or the plain, The teeming harvest, or the blighted grain,—All—all were fashioned beautiful and good, As the soul saw and senses understood.

Thus broadly based, his spacious faith and love Enfolded all below as all above—
Nay, ev'n if overmuch he loved mankind,
He gave his love's vast largess as designed.

Therefore, in fondest, faithful service, he Wrought ever bravely for humanity—
Stood, first of heroes for the Right allied—
Foes, even, grieving, when (for them) he died.

This was the man we loved—are loving yet, And still shall love while longing eyes are wet With selfish tears that well were brushed away, Remembering his smile of yesterday.—

For, even as we knew him, smiling still, Somewhere beyond all earthly ache or ill, He waits with the old welcome—just as when We met him smiling, we shall meet again.

HIS HEART OF CONSTANT YOUTH

And I never hear the drums beat that I do not think of him.

—Major Charles L. Holstein

TURN through his life, each word and deed Now sacred as it is— How helped and soothed we are to read A history like his!

To turn the years, in far review,
And find him—as To-day—
In orchard-lands of bloom and dew
Again a boy at play:

The jeweled grass—the sumptuous trees
And flower and fragrance there,
With song of birds and drone of bees
And Spring-time everywhere:

Turn any chapter that we will, Read any page, in sooth, We find his glad heart owning still The freshness of his youth.

With such a heart of tender care He loved his own, and thus His home was, to the loved ones there, A temple glorious.

And, ever youthful, still his love Enshrined, all manifold, The people—all the poor thereof, The helpless and the old.

And little children—Ah! to them His love was as the sun Wrought in a magic diadem That crowned them, every one.

And ever young his reverence for The laws: like morning-dew He shone as counsel, orator, And clear logician, too.

And, as a boy, his gallant soul Made answer to the trill Of battle-trumpet and the roll Of drums that echo still:

His comrades—as his country, dear— They knew, and ever knew That buoyant, boyish love, sincere As truth itself is true:

1996 HIS HEART OF CONSTANT YOUTH

He marched with them, in tireless tramp— Laughed, cheered and lifted up The battle-chorus, and in camp Shared blanket, pipe and cup.

His comrades! . . . When you meet again, In anguish though you bow, Remember how he loved you then, And how he loves you now.

THE PATHS OF PEACE

MAURICE THOMPSON—FEBRUARY 15, 1901

HE would have holiday—outworn, in sooth, Would turn again to seek the old release,—The open fields—the loved haunts of his youth—The woods, the waters, and the paths of peace.

The rest—the recreation he would choose
Be his abidingly! Long has he served
And greatly—ay, and greatly let us use
Our grief, and yield him nobly as deserved.

Perchance—with subtler senses than our own
And love exceeding ours—he listens thus
To ever nearer, clearer pipings blown
From out the lost lands of Theocritus.

Or haply, he is beckoned from us here, By knight or yeoman of the bosky wood, Or, chained in roses, haled a prisoner Before the blithe Immortal, Robin Hood. Or, mayhap, Chaucer signals, and with him And his rare fellows he goes pilgriming; Or Walton signs him, o'er the morning brim Of misty waters midst the dales of Spring.

Ho! wheresoe'er he goes, or whosoe'er
He fares with, he has bravely earned the boon.
Be his the open, and the glory there
Of April-buds, May-blooms and flowers of June!

Be his the glittering dawn, the twinkling dew,
The breathless pool or gush of laughing streams—
Be his the triumph of the coming true
Of all his loveliest dreams!

THE TRIBUTE OF HIS HOME

BENJAMIN HARRISON—INDIANAPOLIS, MARCH 14, 1901

BOWED, midst a universal grief that makes Columbia's self a stricken mourner, cast In tears beneath the old Flag at half-mast, A sense of glory rouses us and breaks Like song upon our sorrowing and shakes The dew from our drenched eyes, that smile at last

In childish pride—as though the great man passed To his most high reward for our poor sakes.

Loved of all men—we muse,—yet ours he was—
Choice of the Nation's mighty brotherhood—
Her soldier, statesman, ruler.—Ay, but then,
We knew him—long before the world's applause
And after—as a neighbor, kind and good,
Our common friend and fellow citizen.

AMERICA

BUFFALO, NEW YORK, SEPTEMBER 14, 1901

O Thou, America-Messiah of Nations!

I

In the need that bows us thus,
America!
Shape a mighty song for us—
America!
Song to whelm a hundred years'
Roar of wars and rain of tears
'Neath a world's triumphant cheers:
America! America!

II

Lift the trumpet to thy mouth,
America!
East and West and North and South—
America!
Call us round the dazzling shrine
Of the starry old ensign—
New baptized in blood of thine,
America! America!

III

Dying eyes through pitying mists,
America!
See the Assassin's shackled wrists,
America!
Patient eyes that turn their sight
From all blackening crime and blight
Still toward Heaven's holy light—
America! America!

IV

High o'erlooking sea and land,
America!
Trustfully with outheld hand,
America!
Thou dost welcome all in quest
Of thy freedom, peace and rest—
Every exile is thy guest,
America! America!

V

Thine a universal love,
America!
Thine the cross and crown thereof,
America!
Aid us, then, to sing thy worth:
God hath builded, from thy birth,
The first nation of the earth—
America! America!

EVEN AS A CHILD

CANTON, SEPTEMBER 19, 1901

EVEN as a child to whom sad neighbors speak
In symbol, saying that his father "sleeps"—
Who feels their meaning, even as his cheek
Feels the first tear-drop as it stings and leaps—
Who keenly knows his loss, and yet denies
Its awful import—grieves unreconciled,
Moans, drowses—rouses, with new-drowning eyes—
Even as a child.

Even as a child; with empty, aimless hand
Clasped sudden to the heart all hope deserts—
With tears that blur all lights on sea or land—
The lip that quivers and the throat that hurts:
Even so, the Nation that has known his love
Is orphaned now; and, whelmed in anguish wild
Knows but its sorrow and the ache thereof,
Even as a child.

THE HOOSIER IN EXILE

THE Hoosier in Exile—a toast
That by its very sound
Moves us, at first, to tears almost,
And sympathy profound;
But musing for a little space,
We lift the glass and smile,
And poise it with a royal grace—
The Hoosier in Exile!

The Hoosier in Exile, forsooth!

For though his steps may roam

The earth's remotest bounds, in truth
His heart is ever home!

O loyal still to every tie
Of native fields and streams,
His boyhood friends, and paths whereby
He finds them in his dreams!

Though he may fare the thronging maze
Of alien city streets,
His thoughts are set in grassy ways
And woodlands' cool retreats:

Forever, clear and sweet above
The traffic's roar and din,
In breezy groves he hears the dove,
And is at peace within.

When newer friends and generous hands
Advance him, he returns
Due gratefulness, yet, pausing, stands
As one who strangely yearns
To pay still further thanks, but sighs
To think he knows not where,
Till—like as life—with misty eyes
He sees his mother there.

The Hoosier in Exile? Ah, well,
Accept the phrase, but know
The Hoosier heart must ever dwell
Where orchard blossoms grow
The whitest, apples reddest, and,
In cornlands, mile on mile,
The old homesteads forever stand—
"The Hoosier in Exile!"

THE QUEST OF THE FATHERS

WHAT were our Forefathers trying to find
When they weighed anchor, that desperate hour

They turned from home, and the warning wind Sighed in the sails of the old Mayflower? What sought they that could compensate Their hearts for the loved ones left behind—The household group at the glowing grate?—What were our Forefathers trying to find?

What were they trying to find more dear
Than their native land and its annals old,—
Its throne—its church—and its worldly cheer—
Its princely state, and its hoarded gold?
What more dear than the mounds of green
There o'er the brave sires, slumbering long?
What more fair than the rural scene—
What more sweet than the throstle's song?

Faces pallid, but sternly set,
Lips locked close, as in voiceless prayer,
And eyes with never a tear-drop wet—
Even the tenderest woman's there!

But O the light from the soul within,
As each spake each with a flashing mind—
As the lightning speaks to its kith and kin!
What were our Forefathers trying to find?

Argonauts of a godless day—
Seers of visions, and dreamers vain!
Their ship's foot set in a pathless way,—
The fogs, the mists, and the blinding rain!—
When the gleam of sun, and moon and star
Seemed lost so long they were half forgot—
When the fixed eyes found nor near nor far,
And the night whelmed all, and the world was not.

And yet, befriended in some strange wise,
They groped their way in the storm and stress
Through which—though their look found not the skies—

The Lord's look found them ne'ertheless—
Found them, yea, in their piteous lot,
As they in their faith from the first divined—
Found them, and favored them—too. But what—
What were our Forefathers trying to find?

Numb and agasp, with the frost for breath,

They came on a frozen shore, at last,
As bleak and drear as the coasts of death,—
And yet their psalm o'er the wintry blast
Rang glad as though 'twere the chiming mirth
Of jubilant children landing there—
Until o'er all of the icy earth
The snows seemed warm, as they knelt in prayer.

For, lo! they were close on the trail they sought:—
In the sacred soil of the rights of men
They marked where the Master-hand had wrought;
And there they garnered and sowed again.—
Their land—then ours, as to-day it is,
With its flag of heaven's own light designed,
And God's vast love o'er all. . . . And this Is what our Forefathers were trying to find.

TO THE MOTHER

THE mother-hands no further toil may know;
The mother-eyes smile not on you and me;
The mother-heart is stilled, alas!—But O
The mother-love abides eternally.

NEW YEAR'S NURSERY JINGLE

Of where and when and how,
We best and most can boost and boast
The Golden Age of NOW!

FOOL-YOUNGENS

E an' Bert an' Minnie-Belle Knows a joke, an' we won't tell! No, we don't--'cause we don't know Why we got to laughin' so: But we got to laughin' so, We ist kep' a-laughin'.

Wind uz blowin' in the tree-An' wuz only ist us three Playin' there; an' ever' one Ketched each other, like we done, Squintin' up there at the sun Like we wuz a-laughin'.

Nothin' funny anyway; But I laughed, an' so did they-An' we all three laughed, an' nen Squint' our eyes an' laugh' again: Ner we didn't ist p'ten'-We wuz shore-'nough laughin'.

We ist laugh' an' laugh', tel Bert Say he can't quit an' it hurt. Nen I howl, an' Minnie-Belle

She tear up the grass a spell An' ist stop her yeers an' yell Like she'd die a-laughin'.

Never sich fool-youngens yit!

Nothin' funny,—not a bit!—

But we laugh' so, tel we whoop'

Purt' nigh like we have the croup—

All so hoarse we'd wheeze an' whoop

An' ist choke a-laughin'.

A GUSTATORY ACHIEVEMENT

LAST Thanksgivin'-dinner we Et at Granny's house, an' she Had—ist like she alluz does—
Most an' best pies ever wuz.

Canned blackburry-pie an' goose-Burry, squshin'-full o' juice; An' rozburry—yes, an' plum— Yes, an' churry-pie—um-yum!

Peach an' punkin, too, you bet. Lawzy! I kin taste 'em yet! Yes, an' custard-pie, an' mince!

An'-I-ain't-et-no-pie-since!

BILLY AND HIS DRUM

HO! it's come, kids, come!
With a bim! bam! bum!
Here's little Billy bangin' on his big bass drum!
He's a-marchin' round the room,
With his feather-duster plume
A-noddin' an' a-bobbin' with his bim! boom!

Looky, little Jane an' Jim!
Will you only look at him,
A-humpin' an' a-thumpin' with his bam! bom! bim!
Has the Day o' Judgment come
Er the New Mi-len-nee-um?
Er is it only Billy with his bim! bam! bum!

I'm a-comin'; yes, I am— Jim an' Sis, an' Jane an' Sam! We'll all march off with Billy an' his bom! bim! bam! Come hurrawin' as you come, Er they'll think you're deef-an'-dumb Ef you don't hear little Billy an' his big bass drum!

A DIVERTED TRAGEDY

RACIE wuz allus a careless tot;
But Gracie dearly loved her doll,
An' played wiv it on the winder-sill
'Way up-stairs, when she ought to not,
An' her muvver telled her so an' all;
But she won't mind what she say—till,
First thing she know, her dolly fall
Clean spang out o' the winder, plumb
Into the street! An' here Grace come
Down-stairs, two at a time, ist wild
An' a-screamin', "Oh, my child!"

Jule wuz a-bringin' their basket o' clo'es

Ist then into their hall down there,—
An' she ist stop' when Gracie bawl,
An' Jule she say "She ist declare

She's ist in time!" An' what you s'pose?
She sets her basket down in the hall,
An' wite on top o' the snowy clo'es

Wuz Gracie's dolly a-layin' there
An' ist ain't bu'st ner hurt a-tall!

Nen Gracie smiled—ist sobbed an' smiled—
An' cried, "My child! my precious child!"

THOMAS THE PRETENDER

TOMMY'S alluz playin' jokes,
An' actin' up, an' foolin' folks;
An' wunst one time he creep
In Pa's big chair, he did, one night,
An' squint an' shut his eyes bofe tight,
An' say, "Now I'm asleep."
An' nen we knowed, an' Ma know' too,
He ain't asleep no more'n you!

An' wunst he clumbed on our back-fence
An' flop his arms an' nen commence
To crow, like he's a hen;
But when he falled off, like he done,
He didn't fool us childern none,
Ner didn't crow again.
An' our Hired Man, as he come by,
Says, "Tom can't crow, but he kin cry."

An' one time wunst Tom 'tend'-like he's His Pa an' goin' to rob the bees;
An', first he know—oh, dear!
They ist come swarmin' out o' there

An' sting him, an' stick in his hair—
An' one got in his yeer!—
An' Uncle sigh an' say to Ma,
An' grease the welts, "Pore Pa! pore Pa!"

TO MY SISTER

A BELATED OFFERING FOR HER BIRTHDAY

THESE books you find three weeks behind
Your honored anniversary
Make me, I fear, to here appear
Mayhap a trifle cursory.—
Yet while the Muse must thus refuse
The chords that fall caressfully,
She seems to stir the publisher
And dealer quite successfully.

As to our birthdays—let 'em run
Until they whir and whiz!
Read Robert Louis Stevenson,
And hum these lines of his:—
"The eternal dawn, beyond a doubt,
Shall break on hill and plain
And put all stars and candles out
Ere we be young again."

THE SOLDIER

THE DEDICATION OF THE SOLDIERS' AND SAILORS' MONUMENT, INDIANAPOLIS, MAY 15, 1902

THE Soldier!—meek the title, yet divine:
Therefore, with reverence, as with wild acclaim,

We fain would honor in exalted line
The glorious lineage of the glorious name:
The Soldier.—Lo, he ever was and is,
Our Country's high custodian, by right
Of patriot blood that brims that heart of his
With fiercest love, yet honor infinite.

The Soldier—within whose inviolate care
The Nation takes repose,—her inmost fane
Of Freedom ever has its guardian there,
As have her forts and fleets on land and main:
The Heavenward Banner, as its ripples stream
In happy winds, or float in languid flow,
Through silken meshes ever sifts the gleam
Of sunshine on its Sentinel below.

The Soldier!—Why, the very utterance Is music—as of rallying bugles, blent With blur of drums and cymbals and the chants Of battle-hymns that shake the continent!-The thunder-chorus of a world is stirred To awful, universal jubilee,-Yet ever through it, pure and sweet, are heard The prayers of Womanhood, and Infancy.

Even as a fateful tempest sudden loosed Upon our senses, so our thoughts are blown Back where The Soldier battled, nor refuse A grave all nameless in a clime unknown.— The Soldier-though, perchance, worn, old and gray; The Soldier—though, perchance, the merest lad .--

The Soldier—though he gave his life away, Hearing the shout of "Victory," was glad;

Ay, glad and grateful, that in such a cause His veins were drained at Freedom's holy shrine--

Rechristening the land—as first it was.—

His blood poured thus in sacramental sign Of new baptism of the hallowed name "My Country"-now on every lip once more And blest of God with still enduring fame.-This thought even then The Soldier gloried o'er.

The dying eyes upraised in rapture there,—
As, haply, he remembered how a breeze
Once swept his boyish brow and tossed his hair,
Under the fresh bloom of the orchard-trees—
When his heart hurried, in some wistful haste
Of ecstasy, and his quick breath was wild
And balmy-sharp and chilly-sweet to taste,—
And he towered godlike, though a trembling child!

Again, through luminous mists, he saw the skies' Far fields white-tented; and in gray and blue And dazzling gold, he saw vast armies rise And fuse in fire—from which, in swiftest view, The Old Flag soared, and friend and foe as one Blent in an instant's vivid mirage. . . . Then The eyes closed smiling on the smiling sun That changed the seer to a child again.—

And, even so, The Soldier slept.—Our own!—
The Soldier of our plaudits, flowers and tears,—

O this memorial of bronze and stone—
His love shall outlast this a thousand years!
Yet, as the towering symbol bids us do,—
With soul saluting, as salutes the hand,
We answer as The Soldier answered to
The Captain's high command.

A CHRISTMAS GLEE

FEIGNED AS FROM ELIZABETHAN COMEDY

I

O a Christmas glass for a sweet-lipped lass
To kiss and pass, in her coquetry—
So rare!

And the lads all flush save the right one there—
So rare—so rare!

With a hey! and a hi! and a ho—oh!
The Christmas holly and the mistletoe!

II

With a hey! and a hi! and a hey-ho wile!

As he lifts the cup and his wan face up,

Her eyes touch his with a tender smile—

So rare!

Then his hands grasp out—and her own are there-

So rare—so rare!

With a hey! and a hi! and a ho—oh! The Christmas holly and the mistletoe!

CHORUS

With a hey! and a hi! and a hey-ho-ho! The wind, the winter and the drifting snow! With a hey! and a hi! and a ho—oh! The Christmas holly and the mistletoe!

NO BOY KNOWS

THERE are many things that boys may know—
Why this and that are thus and so,—
Who made the world in the dark and lit
The great sun up to lighten it:
Boys know new things every day—
When they study, or when they play,—
When they idle, or sow and reap—
But no boy knows when he goes to sleep.

Boys who listen—or should, at least,—
May know that the round old earth rolls East;—
And know that the ice and the snow and the rain—

Ever repeating their parts again—
Are all just water the sunbeams first
Sip from the earth in their endless thirst,
And pour again till the low streams leap.—
But no boy knows when he goes to sleep.

A boy may know what a long, glad while It has been to him since the dawn's first smile, When forth he fared in the realm divine Of brook-laced woodland and spun-sunshine;— He may know each call of his truant mates,
And the paths they went,—and the pasture-gates
Of the 'cross-lots home through the dusk so deep.—

But no boy knows when he goes to sleep.

O I have followed me, o'er and o'er,
From the flagrant drowse on the parlor-floor,
To the pleading voice of the mother when
I even doubted I heard it then—
To the sense of a kiss, and a moonlit room,
And dewy odors of locust-bloom—
A sweet white cot—and a cricket's cheep.—
But no boy knows when he goes to sleep.

HIS PA'S ROMANCE

ALL 'at I ever want to be
Is ist to be a man like Pa
When he wuz young an' married Ma!
Uncle he telled us yisterdy
Ist all about it then—'cause they,
My Pa an' Ma, wuz bofe away
To 'tend P'tracted Meetin', where
My Pa an' Ma is allus there
When all the big "Revivals" is,
An' "Love-Feasts," too, an' "Class," an'
"Prayer,"

An' when's "Comoonian Servicis."
An', yes, an' Uncle said to not
To never tell them ner let on
Like we knowed now ist how they got
First married. So—while they wuz gone—
Uncle he telled us ever'thing—
'Bout how my Pa wuz ist a pore
Farm-boy.—He says, I tell you what,
You Pa wuz pore! But neighbers they
All liked him—all but one old man
An' his old wife that folks all say
Nobody liked, ner never can!

Yes, sir! an' Uncle purt' nigh swore About the mean old man an' way He treat' my Pa!-'cause he's a pore Farm-hand—but prouder 'an a king— An' ist work' on, he did, an' wore His old patched clo'es, ist anyway, So he saved up his wages—then He ist worked on an' saved some more. An' ist worked on, ist night an' day-Till, sir, he save' up nine er ten Er hunnerd dollars! But he keep All still about it. Uncle say-But he ist thinks—an' thinks a heap! Though what he wuz a-thinkin'. Pa He never tell' a soul but Ma-(Then, course, you know, he wuzn't Pa, An', course, you know, she wuzn't Ma-They wuz ist sweethearts, course you know); 'Cause Ma wuz ist a girl, about Sixteen; an' when my Pa he go A-courtin' her, her Pa an' Ma-The very first they find it out-Wuz maddest folks you ever saw! 'Cause it wuz her old Ma an' Pa 'At hate' my Pa, an' toss their head, An' ist raise Ned! An' her Pa said He'd ruther see his daughter dead! An' said she's ist a child!-an' so Wuz Pa!-An' ef he wuz man-grown An' only man on earth below. His daughter shouldn't marry him

Ef he's a king an' on his throne! Pa's chances then looked mighty slim Fer certain, Uncle said. But he-He never told a soul but her What he wuz keepin' quiet fer. Her folks ist lived a mile from where He lived at—an' they drove past there To git to town. An' ever' one An' all the neighbers they liked her An' showed it! But her folks-no, sir!-Nobody liked her parunts none! An' so when they shet down, you know, On Pa-an' old man tell' him so-Pa ist went back to work, an' she Ist waited. An', sir! purty soon Her folks they thought he's turned his eye Some other way-'cause by-an'-by They heard he'd rented the old place He worked on. An' one afternoon A neighber, that had bust' a trace, He tell' the old man they wuz signs Around the old place that the young Man wuz a-fixin' up the old Log cabin some, an' he had brung New furnichur from town: an' told How th' old house 'uz whitewashed clean An' sweet wiv morning-glory vines An' hollyhawks all 'round the door An' winders-an' a bran'-new floor In th' old porch—an' wite-new green-An'-red pump in the old sweep-well!

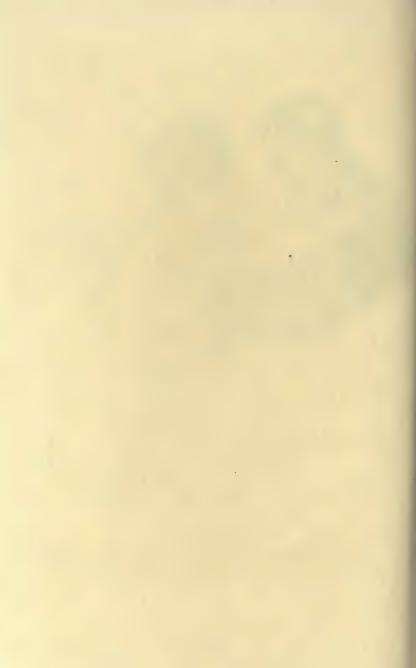

An'. Uncle said, when he hear tell O' all them things, the old man he Ist grin' an' says, he "reckon' now Some gal, er widder anyhow, That silly boy he's coaxed at last To marry him!" he says, says-ee, "An' ef he has, 'so mote it be'!" Then went back to the house to tell His wife the news, as he went past The smokehouse, an' then went on in The kitchen, where his daughter she Wuz washin', to tell her, an' grin An' try to worry her a spell! The mean old thing! But Uncle said She ain't cry much—ist pull her old Suphonnet forrerds on her head-So's old man he can't see her face At all! An' when he s'pose he scold An' jaw enough, he ist clear' out An' think he's boss of all the place!

Then Uncle say, the first you know
They's go' to be a Circus-show
In town; an' old man think he'll take
His wife an' go. An' when she say
To take their daughter, too, she shake
Her head like she don't want to go;
An' when he sees she wants to stay,
The old man takes her, anyway!
An' so she went! But Uncle he
Said she looked mighty sweet that day,

Though she wuz pale as she could be. A-speshully a-drivin' by Wite where her beau lived at, you know; But out the corner of his eve The old man watch' her; but she throw Her pairsol 'round so she can't see The house at all! An' then she hear. Her Pa an' Ma a-talkin' low An' kind o' laughin'-like; but she Ist set there in the seat behind, P'tendin' like she didn't mind. An', Uncle say, when they got past The young man's place, an' 'pearantly He wuzn't home, but off an' gone To town, the old man turned at last An' talked back to his daughter there, All pleasant-like, from then clean on Till they got into town, an' where The Circus wuz, an' on inside O' that, an' through the crowd, on to The very top seat in the tent Wite next the band—a-bangin' through A tune 'at bu'st his yeers in two! An' there the old man scrouged an' tried To make his wife set down, an' she A-yellin'! But ist what she meant He couldn't hear, ner couldn't see Till she turned 'round an' pinted. Then He turned an' looked—an' looked again! . . . He ist saw neighbers ever'where-But, sir, his daughter wuzn't there!

"An' the young man grab an' kiss an' hug her, till she make him quit"

An', Uncle says, he even saw
Her beau, you know, he hated so;
An' he wuz with some other girl.
An' then he heard the Clown "Haw-haw!"
An' saw the horses wheel an' whirl
Around the ring, an' heard the zipp
O' the Ringmaster's long slim whip—
But that whole Circus, Uncle said,
Wuz all inside the old man's head!

An' Uncle said, he didn't find
His daughter all that afternoon—
An' her Ma says she'll lose her mind
Ef they don't find her purty soon!
But, though they looked all day, an' stayed
There fer the night p'formance—not
No use at all!—they never laid
Their eyes on her. An' then they got
Their team out, an' the old man shook
His fist at all the town, an' then
Shook it up at the moon ag'in,
An' said his time 'ud come, some day!
An' jerked the lines an' driv away.

Uncle, he said, he s'pect, that night,
The old man's madder yet when they
Drive past the young man's place, an' hear
A fiddle there, an' see a light
Inside, an' shadders light an' gay
A-dancin' 'crosst the winder-blinds.
An' some young chaps outside yelled, "Say!
What 'pears to be the hurry—hey?"

But the old man ist whipped the lines An' streaked past like a runaway! An' now you'll be su'prised, I bet!-I hardly ain't quit laughin' yet When Uncle say, that jamboree An' dance an' all-w'y, that's a sign That any old man ort to see, As plain as 8 and 1 makes 9, That they's a weddin' wite inside That very house he's whippin' so To git apast!—An', sir! the bride There's his own daughter! Yes, an' oh! She's my Ma now-an' young man she Got married, he's my Pa! Whoop-ee! But Uncle say to not laugh all The laughin' yet, but please save some To kind o' spice up what's to come!

Then Uncle say, about next day
The neighbers they begin to call
An' wish 'em well, an' say how glad
An' proud an' tickled ever' way
Their friends all is—an' how they had
The lovin' prayers of ever' one
That had homes of their own! But none
Said nothin' 'bout the home that she
Had run away from! So she sighed
Sometimes—an' wunst she purt' nigh cried.

Well, Uncle say, her old Pa, he Ist like to died, he wuz so mad! An' her Ma, too! But by-an'-by They cool down some.

An', 'bout a week, She want to see her Ma so bad. She think she'll haf to go! An' so She coax him: an' he kiss her cheek An' say, Lord bless her, course they'll go! An', Uncle say, when they're bofe come A-knockin' there at her old home-W'v, first he know, the door it flew Open, all quick, an' she's jerked in, An', quicker still, the door's banged to An' locked: an' crosst the winder-sill The old man pokes a shotgun through An' says to git! "You stold my child," He says: "an', now she's back, w'v, you Clear out, this minute, er I'll kill You! Yes, an' I 'ull kill her, too, Ef vou don't go!" An' then, all wild, His young wife begs him please to go! An' so he turn' an' walk'-all slow An' pale as death, but awful still An' ca'm-back to the gate, an' on Into the road, where he had gone So many times alone, you know! An', Uncle say, a whipperwill Holler so lonesome, as he go On back to'rds home, he say he 'spec' He ist 'ud like to wring its neck! An' I ain't think he's goin' back All by hisse'f-but Uncle say That's what he does, an' it's a fac'!

An' 'pears-like he's goin' back to stav-'Cause there he stick', ist thataway, An' don't go nowheres any more. Ner don't nobody ever see Him set his foot outside the door-Till 'bout five days, a boy loped down The road, a-comin' past from town, An' he called to him from the gate. An' sent the old man word: He's thought Things over now; an', while he hate To lose his wife, he think she ought To mind her Pa an' Ma an' do Whatever they advise her to. An' sends word, too, to come an' git Her new things an' the furnichur That he had special' bought fer her-'Cause, now that they wuz goin' to quit. She's free to ist have all of it:-So, fer his love fer her, he say To come an' git it, wite away. An' spang! that very afternoon. Here come her Ma-ist 'bout as soon As old man could hitch up an' tell Her "hurry back!" An' 'bout as quick As she's drove there to where my Pa-I mean to where her son-in-law-Lives at, he meets her at the door All smilin', though he's awful pale An' trimbly—like he's ist been sick: He take her in the house-An'. 'fore She knows it, they's a cellar-door

Shet on her, an' she hears the click Of a' old rusty padlock! Then, Uncle, he say, she kind o' stands An' thinks—an' thinks—an' thinks ag'in— An' mayby thinks of her own child Locked up—like her! An' Uncle smiled, An' I ist laughed an' clapped my hands! An' there she staved! An' she can cry Ist all she want! an' yell an' kick To ist her heart's content! an' try To prv out wiv a quiltin'-stick! But Uncle say he guess at last She's 'bout give up, an' holler through The door-crack fer to please to be So kind an' good as send an' tell The old man, like she want him to, To come 'fore night, an' set her free, Er-they wuz rats down there! An' vell She did, till. Uncle say, it soured The morning's milk in the back yard! But all the answer reached her, where She's skeered so in the dark down there. Wuz ist a mutterin' that she heard.— "I've sent him word!-I've sent him word!" An' shore enough, as Uncle say, He has "sent word!"

Well, it's plum night
An' all the house is shet up tight—
Only one winder 'bout half-way
Raised up, you know; an' ain't no light

Inside the whole house, Uncle say.
Then, first you know, there where the team
Stands hitched yet, there the old man

A' old tin lantern in his hands An' monkey-wrench; an' he don't seem To make things out, a-standin' there. He comes on to the gate an' feels An' fumbles fer the latch—then hears A voice that chills him to the heels— "You halt! an' stand right where you air!" Then, sir! my-my-his son-in-law, There at the winder wiv his gun. He tell the old man what he's done: "You hold my wife a prisoner— An' your wife, drat ye! I've got her! An' now, sir," Uncle say he say, "You ist turn round an' climb wite in That wagon, an' drive home ag'in An' bring my wife back wite away, An' we'll trade then-an' not before Will I unlock my cellar-door-Not fer your wife's sake ner your own, But my wife's sake—an' hers alone!" An', Uncle say, it don't sound like It's so, but yet it is !—He say, From wite then, somepin' seem' to strike The old man's funny-bone some way; An', minute more, that team o' his Went tearin' down the road k'whiz! An' in the same two-forty style

Come whizzin' back! An' oh, that-air Sweet girl a-cryin' all the while, Thinkin' about her Ma there, shet In her own daughter's cellar, where-Ist week or so she's kep' house there-She hadn't time to clean it yet! So when her Pa an' her they git There—an' the young man grab' an' kiss An' hug her, till she make him quit An' ask him where her mother is. An' then he smile' an' try to not; Then slow-like find th' old padlock key, An' blow a' oat-hull out of it, An' then stoop down there where he's got Her Ma locked up so keerfully— An' where, wite there, he say he thought It ort to been the old man—though Uncle, he say, he reckon not-When out she bounced, all tickled so To taste fresh air ag'in an' find Her folks wunst more, an' grab' her child An' cry an' laugh, an' even go An' hug the old man; an' he wind Her in his arms, an' laugh, an' pat Her back, an' say he's riconciled. In such a happy scene as that, To swap his daughter for her Ma. An' have so smart a son-in-law As they had! "Yes, an' he's my Pa!" I laugh' an' yell', "Hooray-hooraw!"

TO JOEL CHANDLER HARRIS

YOU who to the rounded prime
Of a life of toil and stress,
Still have kept the morning-time
Of glad youth in heart and spirit,
So your laugh, as children hear it,
Seems their own, no less,—
Take this book of childish rhyme—
The Book of Joyous Children.

Their first happiness on earth
Here is echoed—their first glee:
Rich, in sooth, the volume's worth—
Not in classic lore, but rich in
The child-sagas of the kitchen;—
Therefore, take from me
To your heart of childish mirth
The Book of Joyous Children.

THE BOOK OF JOYOUS CHILDREN

BOUND and bordered in leaf-green,
Edged with trellised buds and flowers
And glad Summer-gold, with clean
White and purple morning-glories
Such as suit the songs and stories
Of this book of ours,
Unrevised in text or scene,—
The Book of Joyous Children.

Wild and breathless in their glee—
Lawless rangers of all ways
Winding through lush greenery
Of Elysian vales—the viny,
Bowery groves of shady, shiny
Haunts of childish days.
Spread and read again with me
The Book of Joyous Children.

What a whir of wings, and what
Sudden drench of dews upon
The young brows, wreathed, all unsought,
With the apple-blossom garlands

H-6 2039

Of the poets of those far lands
Whence all dreams are drawn
Set herein and soiling not
The Book of Joyous Children.

In their blithe companionship
Taste again, these pages through,
The hot honey on your lip
Of the sun-smit wild strawberry,
Or the chill tart of the cherry;
Kneel, all glowing, to
The cool spring, and with it sip
The Book of Joyous Children.

As their laughter needs no rule,
So accept their language, pray.—
Touch it not with any tool:
Surely we may understand it,—
As the heart has parsed or scanned it
Is a worthy way,
Though found not in any School
The Book of Joyous Children.

Be a truant—know no place
Of prison under heaven's rim!
Front the Father's smiling face—
Smiling, that you smile the brighter
For the heavy hearts made lighter,
Since you smile with Him.
Take—and thank Him for His grace—
The Book of Joyous Children.

ELMER BROWN

AWF'LEST boy in this-here town
Er anywheres is Elmer Brown!
He'll mock you—yes, an' strangers, too,
An' make a face an' yell at you,—
"Here's the way you look!"

Yes, an' wunst in School one day, An' Teacher's lookin' wite that way, He helt his slate, an' hide his head, An' maked a face at her, an' said,— "Here's the way you look!"

An'-sir! when Rosie Wheeler smile
One morning at him 'crosst the aisle,
He twist his face all up, an' black
His nose wiv ink, an' whisper back,—
"Here's the way you look!"

Wunst when his Aunt's all dressed to call, An' kiss him good-by in the hall, An' latch the gate an' start away, He holler out to her an' say,—
"Here's the way you look!"

An' when his Pa he read out loud
The speech he maked, an' feel so proud
It's in the paper—Elmer's Ma
She ketched him—wite behind his Pa,—
"Here's the way you look!"

Nen when his Ma she slip an' take
Him in the other room an' shake
Him good! w'y, he don't care—no-sir!—
He ist look up an' laugh at her,—
"Here's the way you look!"

THE RAMBO-TREE

HEN Autumn shakes the rambo-tree—
It's a long, sweet way across the orchard!—
The bird sings low as the bumblebee—
It's a long, sweet way across the orchard!—
The poor shote-pig he says, says he:
"When Autumn shakes the rambo-tree
There's enough for you and enough for me."—
It's a long, sweet way across the orchard.

For just two truant lads like we,
When Autumn shakes the rambo-tree
There's enough for you and enough for me—
It's a long, sweet way across the orchard.

When Autumn shakes the rambo-tree—
It's a long, sweet way across the orchard!—
The mole digs out to peep and see—
It's a long, sweet way across the orchard!—
The dusk sags down, and the moon swings free,
There's a far, lorn call, "Pig-gee! Pig-gee!"
And two boys—glad enough for three.—
It's a long, sweet way across the orchard.

For just two truant lads like we,
When Autumn shakes the rambo-tree
There's enough for you and enough for me—
It's a long, sweet way across the orchard.

Our three cats is Maltese cats, An' they's two that's white,— An' bofe of 'em's deef—an' that's 'Cause their eyes ain't right.—

Uncle say that Huxley say
Eyes of white Maltese—
When they don't match thataway—
They're deef as you please!

Girls, they like our white cats best, 'Cause they're white as snow,
Yes, an' look the stylishest—
But they're deef, you know!

They don't know their names, an' don't Hear us when we call "Come in, Nick an' Finn!"—they won't Come fer us at all!

But our other cat, he knows
Mister Nick an' Finn,—
Mowg's his name,—an' when he goes
Fer 'em, they come in!

Mowgli's all his name—the same Me an' Muvver took Like the Wolf-Child's other name, In "The Jungul Book."

I bet Mowg's the smartest cat
In the world!—He's not
White, but mousy-plush, with that
Smoky gloss he's got!

All's got little bells to ring, Round their neck; but none Only Mowg knows anything— He's the only one!

I ist 'spect sometimes he hate White cats' stupid ways:— He won't hardly 'sociate With 'em, lots o' days!

Mowg wants in where we air,—well, He'll ist take his paw An' ist ring an' ring his bell There till me er Ma

Er somebody lets him in

Nen an' shuts the door.—

An', when he wants out ag'in,

Nen he'll ring some more.

Ort to hear our Katy tell!

She sleeps 'way up-stairs;

An' last night she hear Mowg's bell

Ringin' round somewheres. . . .

Trees grows by her winder.—So,
She lean out an' see
Mowg up there, 'way out, you know,
In the clingstone-tree;—

An'-sir! he ist hint an' ring,—
Till she ketch an' plat
Them limbs;—nen he crawl an' spring
In where Katy's at!

THE BOY PATRIOT

I WANT to be a Soldier!—
A Soldier!—

A Soldier!-

I want to be a Soldier, with a saber in my hand Or a little carbine rifle, or a musket on my shoulder, Or just a snare-drum, snarling in the middle of the band:

I want to hear, high overhead, The Old Flag flap her wings

While all the Army, following, in chorus cheers and sings;

I want to hear the tramp and jar Of patriots a million, As gaily dancing off to war As dancing a cotillion.

I want to be a Soldier!-

A Soldier!-

A Soldier!-

I want to be a Soldier, with a saber in my hand
Or a little carbine rifle, or a musket on my shoulder,
Or just a snare-drum, snarling in the middle of the band.

I want to see the battle!-

The battle!-

The battle!-

I want to see the battle, and be in it to the end;—
I want to hear the cannon clear their throats and catch the prattle

Of all the pretty compliments the enemy can send!—
And then I know my wits will go,—and where I shouldn't be—

Well, there's the spot, in any fight, that you may search for me.

So, when our foes have had their fill,
Though I'm among the dying,
To see The Old Flag flying still,
I'll laugh to leave her flying!

I want to be a Soldier!-

A Soldier!-

A Soldier!—

I want to be a Soldier, with a saber in my hand
Or a little carbine rifle, or a musket on my shoulder,
Or just a snare-drum, snarling in the middle of the band.

EXTREMES

Ι

A LITTLE boy once played so loud
That the Thunder, up in a thunder-cloud,
Said, "Since I can't be heard, why, then I'll never, never thunder again!"

II

And a little girl once kept so still That she heard a fly on the window-sill Whisper and say to a ladybird,— "She's the stilliest child I ever heard."

INTELLECTUAL LIMITATIONS

PARUNTS knows lots more than us, But they don't know all things,—'Cause we ketch 'em, lots o' times, Even on little small things.

One time Winnie ask' her Ma, At the winder, sewin', What's the wind a-doin' when It's a-not a-blowin'?

Yes, an' 'Del', that very day,
When we're nearly froze out,
He ask' Uncle where it goes
When the fires goes out?

Nen I run to ask my Pa,
That way, somepin' funny;
But I can't say ist but "Say,"
When he turn to me an' say,
"Well, what is it, Honey?"

A MASQUE OF THE SEASONS

Scene.—A kitchen.—Group of Children, popping corn.—The Fairy Queen of the Seasons discovered in the smoke of the corn-popper.—Waving her wand, and, with eery, sharp, imperious ejaculations, addressing the bespelled auditors, who neither see nor hear her nor suspect her presence.

QUEEN

SUMMER or Winter or Spring or Fall,—Which do you like the best of all?

LITTLE JASPER

When I'm dressed warm as warm can be,
And with boots, to go
Through the deepest snow,
Winter-time is the time for me!

QUEEN

Summer or Winter or Spring or Fall,—Which do you like the best of all?

LITTLE MILDRED

I like blossoms, and birds that sing;
The grass and the dew,
And the sunshine, too,—
So, best of all I like the Spring.

OUEEN

Summer or Winter or Spring or Fall,—Which do you like the best of all?

LITTLE MANDEVILLE

O little friends, I most rejoice
When I hear the drums
As the Circus comes,—
So Summer-time's my special choice.

QUEEN

Summer or Winter or Spring or Fall,—Which do you like the best of all?

LITTLE EDITH

Apples of ruby, and pears of gold,
And grapes of blue
That the bee stings through.—
Fall—it is all that my heart can hold!

QUEEN

Soh! my lovelings and pretty dears, You've each a favorite, it appears,— Summer and Winter and Spring and Fall, That's the reason I send them all!

LITTLE DICK AND THE CLOCK

7HEN Dicky was sick In the night, and the clock, As he listened, said "Tick-Atty-tick-atty-tock!" He said that it said. Every time it said "Tick." It said "Sick," instead, And he heard it say "Sick!" And when it said "Tick-Atty-tick-atty-tock," He said it said "Sick-Atty-sick-atty-sock!" And he tried to see then. But the light was too dim, Yet he heard it again-And 'twas talking to him! And then it said "Sick-Atty-sick-atty-sick! You poor little Dick-Atty-Dick-atty-Dick!-Have you got the hick-Atties? Hi! send for Doc To hurry up quick-

H-7

Atty—quick-atty—quock,
And heat a hot brickAtty—brick-atty—brock,
And rickle-ty wrap it
And clickle-ty clap it
Against his cold feetAl-ty—weep-aty—eepaty—
There he goes, slapitTy—slippaty—sleepaty!"

THE KATYDIDS

SOMETIMES I keep
From going to sleep,
To hear the katydids "cheep-cheep!"
And think they say
Their prayers that way;
But katydids don't have to pray!

I listen when
They cheep again;
And so, I think, they're singing then!
But, no; I'm wrong,—
The sound's too long
And all-alike to be a song!

I think, "Well, there!
I do declare,
If it is neither song nor prayer,
It's talk—and quite
Too vain and light
For me to listen to all night!"

And so, I smile,
And think,—"Now I'll
Not listen for a little while!"—
Then, sweet and clear,
Next "cheep" I hear
'S a kiss. . . . Good morning,
Mommy dear!

THE NOBLE OLD ELM

OBIG Old Tree, so tall an' fine,
Where all us childern swings an' plays,
Though neighbers says you're on the line
Between Pa's house an' Mr. Gray's,—
Us childern used to almost fuss,
Old Tree, about you when we'd play.
We'd argy you belonged to us,
An' them Gray-kids the other way!

Till Elsie, one time she wuz here
An' playin' wiv us—Don't you mind,
Old Mister Tree?—an' purty near
She scolded us the hardest kind
Fer quar'llin' 'bout you thataway,
An' say she'll find—ef we'll keep still—
Whose tree you air fer shore, she say,
An' settle it fer good, she will!

So all keep still: An' nen she gone
An' pat the Old Tree, an' says she,—
"Whose air you, Tree?" an' nen let on
Like she's a-list'nin' to the Tree,—
An' nen she say, "It's settled,—'cause
The Old Tree says he's all our tree—
His trunk belongs to bofe your Pas,
But shade belongs to you an' me."

EVENSONG

LAY away the story,—
Though the theme is sweet,
There's a lack of something yet,
Leaves it incomplete:—
There's a nameless yearning—
Strangely undefined—
For a story sweeter still
Than the written kind.

Therefore read no longer—
I've no heart to hear
But just something you make up,
O my mother dear.—
With your arms around me,
Hold me, folded-eyed,—
Only let your voice go on—
I'll be satisfied.

AN IMPROMPTU FAIRY-TALE

When I wuz ist a little bit o' weenty-teenty kid I maked up a Fairy-tale, all by myse'f, I did:—

Ι

WUNST upon a time wunst
They wuz a Fairy King,
An' ever'thing he have wuz gold—
His clo'es, an' ever'thing!
An' all the other Fairies
In his goldun Palace-hall
Had to hump an' hustle—
'Cause he was bosst of all!

II

He had a golden trumput, An' when he blow' on that, It's a sign he want' his boots, Er his coat er hat:

2061

They's a sign fer ever'thing,— An' all the Fairies knowed Ever' sign, an' come a-hoppin' When the King blowed!

III

Wunst he blowed an' telled 'em all'!

"Saddle up yer bees—
Fireflies is gittin' fat
An' sassy as you please!—
Guess we'll go a-huntin'!"
So they hunt' a little bit,
Till the King blowed "Supper-time,"
Nen they all quit.

IV

Nen they have a Banqut
In the Palace-hall,
An' ist et! an' et! an' et!
Nen they have a Ball;
An' when the Queen o' Fairyland
Come p'omenadin' through,
The King says an' halts her,—
"Guess I'll marry you!"

THE TWINS

"IGO AND AGO"

E'RE The Twins from Aunt
Marinn's,
Igo and Ago.
When Dad comes, the show begins!—
Iram, coram, dago.

Dad he says he named us two
Igo and Ago
For a poem he always knew,
Iram, coram, dago.

Then he was a braw Scotchman—
Igo and Ago
Now he's Scotch-Amer-i-can.
Iram, coram, dago.

"Hey!" he cries, and pats his knee,

"Igo and Ago,

My twin bairnies, ride wi' me—

Iram, coram, dago!"

2063

"Here," he laughs, "ye've each a leg,
Igo and Ago,
Gleg as Tam O'Shanter's 'Meg'!
Iram, coram, dago!"

Then we mount, with shrieks of mirth—
Igo and Ago,—
The two gladdest twins on earth!
Iram, coram, dago.

Wade and Silas-Walker cry,—

"Igo and Ago—
Annie's kissin' 'em 'good-by'!"—

Iram, coram, dago.

Aunty waves us fond farewells.—
"Igo and Ago,"
Granny pipes, "tak care yersels!"
Iram, coram, dago.

THE LITTLE LADY

OTHE Little Lady's dainty
As the picture in a book,
And her hands are creamy-whiter
Than the water-lilies look;
Her laugh's the undrown'd music
Of the maddest meadow-brook.—
Yet all in vain I praise The Little Lady!

Her eyes are blue and dewy
As the glimmering Summer-dawn,—
Her face is like the eglantine
Before the dew is gone;
And were that honied mouth of hers
A bee's to feast upon,
He'd be a bee bewildered, Little Lady!

Her brow makes light look sallow;
And the sunshine, I declare,
Is but a yellow jealousy
Awakened by her hair—
For O the dazzling glint of it
Nor sight nor soul can bear,—
So Love goes groping for The Little Lady.

And yet she's neither Nymph nor Fay,
Nor yet of Angelkind:—
She's but a racing schoolgirl, with
Her hair blown out behind
And tremblingly unbraided by
The fingers of the Wind,
As it wildly swoops upon The Little Lady.

"COMPANY MANNERS"

HEN Bess gave her Dollies a tea, said she,—
"It's unpolite, when they's Company,
To say you've drinked two cups, you see,—
But say you've drinked a couple of tea."

THE GOOD, OLD-FASHIONED PEOPLE

HEN we hear Uncle Sidney tell
About the long-ago
An' old, old friends he loved so well
When he was young—My-oh!—
Us childern all wish we'd 'a' bin
A-livin' then with Uncle,—so
We could a-kind o' happened in
On them old friends he used to know!—
The good, old-fashioned people—
The hale, hard-working people—
The kindly country people
'At Uncle used to know!

They was God's people, Uncle says,
An' gloried in His name,
An' worked, without no selfishness,
An' loved their neighbers same
As they was kin: An' when they biled
Their tree-molasses, in the Spring,
Er butchered in the Fall, they smiled
An' sheered with all jist ever'thing!—
The good, old-fashioned people—
The hale, hard-working people—
The kindly country people
'At Uncle used to know!

THE GOOD, OLD-FASHIONED PEOPLE 2069

He tells about 'em, lots o' times,
Till we'd all ruther hear
About 'em than the Nurs'ry Rhymes
Er Fairies—mighty near!—
Only, sometimes, he stops so long
An' then talks on so low an' slow,
It's purt' nigh sad as any song
To listen to him talkin' so
Of the good, old-fashioned people—
The hale, hard-working people—
The kindly country people
'At Uncle used to know!

THE BEST TIMES

HEN Old Folks they wuz young like us
An' little as you an' me,—
Them wuz the best times ever wuz
Er ever goin' ter be!

"HIK-TEE-DIK"

THE WAR-CRY OF BILLY AND BUDDY

WHEN two little boys—renowned but for noise—
Hik-tee-dik! Billy and Buddy!—

May hurt a whole school, and the head it employs, Hik-tee-dik! Billy and Buddy!

Such loud and hilarious pupils indeed

Need learning—and yet something further they need,

Though fond hearts that love them may sorrow and bleed.

Hik-tee-dik! Billy and Buddy!

O the schoolmarm was cool, and in nowise a fool; Hik-tee-dik! Billy and Buddy!

And in ruling her ranks it was her rule to rule; Hik-tee-dik! Billy and Buddy!

So when these two pupils conspired, every day,

Some mad piece of mischief, with whoop and hoo-ray,

That hurt yet defied her,—how happy were they!— Hik-tee-dik! Billy and Buddy!

H-8 2071

At the ring of the bell they'd rush in with a yell— Hik-tee-dik! Billy and Buddy!

And they'd bang the school-door till the plastering fell,

Hik-tee-dik! Billy and Buddy!

They'd clinch as they came, and pretend not to see As they knocked her desk over—then, My! and O-me!

How awfully sorry they'd both seem to be! Hik-tee-dik! Billy and Buddy!

This trick seemed so neat and so safe a conceit,— Hik-tee-dik! Billy and Buddy!

They played it three times—though the third they were beat;

Hik-tee-dik! Billy and Buddy!

For the teacher, she righted her desk—raised the lid And folded and packed away each little kid—

Closed the incident so—yes, and locked it, she did—Hik-tee-dik! Billy and Buddy!

"OLD BOB WHITE"

OLD Bob White's a funny bird!—
Funniest you ever heard!—
Hear him whistle,—"Old—Bob—White!"
You can hear him, clean from where
He's 'way 'crosst the wheat-field there,
Whistlin' like he didn't care—
"Old—Bob—White!"

Whistles alluz ist the same—
So's we won't fergit his name!—
Hear him say it?—"Old—Bob—White!"
There! he's whizzed off down the lane—
Gone back where his folks is stayin'—
Hear him?—There he goes again,—
"Old—Bob—White!"

A SESSION WITH UNCLE SIDNEY

[1869]

ONE OF HIS ANIMAL STORIES

OW, Tudens, you sit on this knee—and 'scuse It having no side-saddle on;—and, Jeems, You sit on this—and don't you wobble so And chug my old shins with your coppertoes;—And, all the rest of you, range round someway,—Ride on the rockers and hang to the arms Of our old-time split-bottom carryall!—Do anything but squabble for a place, Or push or shove or scrouge, or breathe out loud, Or chew wet, or knead taffy in my beard!—Do anything almost—act anyway,—Only keep still, so I can hear myself Trying to tell you "just one story more!"

One winter afternoon my father, with A whistle to our dog, a shout to us—
His two boys—six and eight years old we were,—
Started off to the woods, a half a mile

From home, where he was chopping wood. We raced,

We slipped and slid; reaching, at last, the north Side of Tharp's corn-field.—There we struck what seemed

To be a coon-track—so we all agreed: And father, who was not a hunter, to Our glad surprise, proposed we follow it. The snow was quite five inches deep; and we, Keen on the trail, were soon far in the woods. Our old dog, "Ring," ran nosing the fresh track With whimpering delight, far on ahead. After following the trail more than a mile To northward, through the thickest winter woods We boys had ever seen,-all suddenly He seemed to strike another trail; and then Our joyful attention was drawn to Old "Ring"—leaping to this side, then to that, Of a big, hollow, old oak tree, which had Been blown down by a storm some years before. There-all at once-out leapt a lean old fox From the black hollow of a big bent limb,-Hey! how he scudded!—but with our old "Ring" Sharp after him—and father after "Ring"— We after father, near as we could hold. And father noticed that the fox kept just About four feet ahead of "Ring"-just that-No farther, and no nearer! Then he said:-"There are young foxes in that tree back there, And the mother-fox is drawing 'Ring' and us Away from their nest there!"

"Oh, le' 's go back !-

Do le' 's go back!" we little vandals cried,—
"Le' 's go back, quick, and find the little things—
Please, father!—Yes, and take 'em home for pets—
'Cause 'Ring' he'll kill the old fox anyway!"

So father turned, at last, and back we went.

And then he chopped a hole in the old tree
About ten feet along the limb from which
The old fox ran: and—Bless their little lives!—
There, in the hollow of the old tree-trunk—
There, on a bed of warm dry leaves and moss—
There, snug as any bug in any rug—
We found—one—two—three—four, and, yes-sir, five

Wee, weenty-teenty baby-foxes, with
Their eyes just barely opened.—Cute?—my-oh!—
The cutest—the most cunning little things
Two boys ever saw, in all their lives!—
"Raw weather for the little fellows now!"
Said father, as though talking to himself,—
"Raw weather, and no home now!"—And off came
His warm old "waumus"; and in that he wrapped
The helpless little fellows then, and held
Them soft and warm against him as he could,—
And home we happy children followed him.—

Old "Ring" did not reach home till nearly dusk: The mother-fox had led him a long chase—
"Yes, and a fool's chase, too!" he seemed to say,

And looked ashamed to hear us praising him But, mother-well, we could not understand Her acting as she did-and we so bleased! I can see yet the look of pained surprise And deep compassion of her troubled face When father very gently laid his coat, With the young foxes in it, on the hearth Beside her, as she brightened up the fire. She urged—for the old fox's sake and theirs— That they be taken back to the old tree; But father-for our wistful sakes, no doubt-Said we would keep them, and would try our best To raise them. And at once he set about Building a snug home for the little things Out of an old big bushel-basket, with Its fractured handle and its stoven ribs: So, lining and padding this all cozily, He snuggled in its little tenants, and Called in John Wesley Thomas, our hired man, And gave him in full charge, with much advice Regarding the just care and sustenance of Young foxes.—"John," he said, "you feed 'em milk_

Warm milk, John Wesley! Yes, and keep 'em by The stove—and keep your stove a-roarin', too, Both night and day!—And keep 'em covered up—Not smothered, John, but snug and comfortable—And now, John Wesley Thomas, first and last,—You feed 'em milk—fresh milk—and always warm-

Say five or six or seven times a day—
Of course we'll grade that by the way they thrive."
But, for all sanguine hope, and care, as well,
The little fellows did not thrive at all.—
Indeed, with all our care and vigilance,
By the third day of their captivity
The last survivor of the fated five
Squeaked, like some battered little rubber-toy,
Jist clean wore out.—And that's jist what 'e wuz!
And—nights,—the cry of the mother-fox for her young

Was heard, with awe, for long weeks afterward. And we boys, every night, would go to the door And, peering out in the darkness, listening, Could hear the poor fox in the black bleak woods Still calling for her little ones in vain. As, all mutely, we returned to the warm fireside, Mother would say: "How would you like for me To be out there, this dark night, in the cold woods, Calling for my children?"

UNCLE BRIGHTENS UP-

NCLE he says 'at 'way down in the sea Ever'thing's ist like it used to be:—
He says they's mermaids an' mermans, too,
An' little merchildern, like me an' you—
Little merboys, with tops an' balls,
An' little mergirls, with little merdolls.

TIT

A PET OF UNCLE SIDNEY'S

Of little Leslie-Janey,
'Cause she's so smart an' goes to school
Clean 'way in Pennsylvany!
She print' an' sent a postul-card
To Uncle Sidney, telling
How glad he'll be to hear that she
"Toock the onners in Speling."

IN THE KINDERGARTEN OF NOBLE SONG

NCLE he learns us to rhyme an' write An' all be poets an' all recite:
His little-est poet's his little-est niece,
An' this is her little-est poetry-piece.

SINGS A "WINKY-TOODEN" SONG-

HERE'S a little rhyme for the Spring- or Summer-time—
An' a-ho-winky-tooden-an'-a-ho!—
Just a little bit o' tune you can twitter, May or June An' a-ho-winky-tooden-an'-a-ho!
It's a song that soars and sings,
As the birds that twang their wings
Or the katydids and things
Thus and so, don't you know,
An' a-ho-winky-tooden-an'-a-ho!

It's a song just broken loose, with no reason or excuse—

An' a-ho-winky-tooden-an'-a-ho!
You can sing along with it—or it matters not a bit—
An' a-ho-winky-tooden-an'-a-ho!

It's a lovely little thing
That 'most any one could sing
With a ringle-dingle-ding,
Soft and low, don't you know,
An' a-ho-winky-tooden-an'-a-ho!

VI

AND ANOTHER OF OUR BETSY-

Us childern's all so lonesome, We hardly want to play
Or skip or swing or anything,—
'Cause Betsy she's away!
She's gone to see her people
At her old home.—But then—
Oh! every child'll jist be wild
When she's back here again!

CHORUS

Then it's whoopty-doopty dooden!— Whoopty-dooden then! Oh! it's whoopty-doopty dooden, When Betsy's back again! She's like a mother to us,
And like a sister, too—
Oh! she's as sweet as things to eat
When all the dinner's through!
And hey! to hear her laughin'!
And ho! to hear her sing!—
To have her back is all we lack
Of havin' everything!

CHORUS

Then it's whoopty-doopty dooden!— Whoopty-dooden then! Oh, it's whoopty-doopty dooden, When Betsy's back again!

Oh! some may sail the northern lakes,
And some to foreign lands,
And some may seek old Nameless Creek,
Or India's golden sands;
Or some may go to Kokomo,
And some to Mackinac,—
But I'll go down to Morgantown
To fetch our Betsy back.

CHORUS

Then it's whoopty-doopty dooden!— Whoopty-dooden then! Oh! it's whoopty-doopty dooden, When Betsy's back again!

AND MAKES NURSERY RHYMES

THE DINERS IN THE KITCHEN

OUR dog Fred Et the bread.

Our dog Dash Et the hash.

Our dog Pete Et the meat.

Our dog Davy Et the gravy.

Our dog Toffy Et the coffee.

Our dog Jake Et the cake.

Our dog Trip Et the dip.

And—the worst, From the first,—

Our dog Fido Et the pie-dough. 2

THE IMPERIOUS ANGLER

Miss Medairy Dory-Ann Cast her line and caught a man, But when he looked so pleased, alack! She unhooked and plunked him back.— "I never like to catch what I can," Said Miss Medairy Dory-Ann.

THE GATHERING OF THE CLANS

[Voice from behind high board-fence.]

"Where's the crowd that dares to go Where I dare to lead?—you know!"

"Well, here's one!" Shouts Ezry Dunn.

"Count me two!"
Yells Cootsy Drew.

"Here's yer three!" Sings Babe Magee.

"Score me four!"
Roars Leech-hole Moore.

"Tally—five!"
Howls Jamesy Clive.

"I make six!"
Chirps Herbert Dix.

"Punctchul!—seven!"
Pipes Runt Replevin.

"Mark me eight!" Grunts Mealbag Nate.

"I'm yet nine!"
Growls "Lud'rick" Stein.

"Hi! here's ten!"
Whoops Catfish Ben.

"And now we march, in daring line, For the banks of Brandywine!"

"IT"

A wee little worm in a hickory-nut
Sang, happy as he could be,—
"O I live in the heart of the whole round world,
And it all belongs to me!"

THE DARING PRINCE

A daring prince, of the realm Rangg Dhune, Once went up in a big balloon That caught and stuck on the horns of the moon, And he hung up there till next day noon— When all at once he exclaimed, "Hoot-toot!" And then came down in his parachute.

A SONG OF SINGING

S ING! gangling lad, along the brink
Of wild brook-ways of shoal and deep,
Where killdees dip, and cattle drink,
And glinting little minnows leap!
Sing! slimpsy lass who trips above
And sets the foot-log quivering!
Sing! bittern, bumblebee, and dove—
Sing! Sing! Sing!

Sing as you will, O singers all
Who sing because you want to sing!
Sing! peacock on the orchard wall,
Or tree-toad by the trickling spring!
Sing! every bird on every bough—
Sing! every living, loving thing—
Sing any song, and anyhow,
But Sing! Sing! Sing!

THE JAYBIRD

THE Jaybird he's my favorite
Of all the birds they is!
I think he's quite a stylish sight
In that blue suit of his:
An' when he 'lights an' shuts his wings,
His coat's a "cutaway"—
I guess it's only when he sings
You'd know he wuz a jay.

I like to watch him when he's lit
In top of any tree,
'Cause all birds git wite out of it
When he 'lights, an' they see
How proud he act', an' swell an' spread
His chest out more an' more,
An' raise the feathers on his head
Like it's cut pompadore!

A BEAR FAMILY

TUNZT, 'way West in Illinoise, Wuz two Bears an' their two boys: An' the two boys' names, you know, Wuz-like ours is,-Jim an' Jo: An' their parunts' names wuz same's All big grown-up people's names,— Ist Miz Bear, the neighbers call 'Em. an' Mister Bear-'at's all. Yes-an' Miz Bear scold him, too. Ist like grown folks shouldn't do! Wuz a grea'-big river there, An', 'crosst that, 's a mountain where Old Bear said some day he'd go. Ef she don't quit scoldin' so! So, one day when he been down The river, fishin', 'most to town, An' come back 'thout no fish a-tall. An' Jim an' Jo they run an' bawl An' tell their ma their pa hain't fetch' No fish,—she scold again an' ketch Her old broom up an' biff him, too .-An' he ist cry, an' say, "Boo-hoo! I told you what I'd do some day!"

An' he ist turned an' runned away To where's the grea'-big river there. An' ist splunged in an' swum to where The mountain's at, 'way th' other side. An' clumbed up there. An' Miz Bear cried-An' little Jo an' little Jim-Ist like their ma-bofe cried fer him!-But he clumbed on, clean out o' sight. He wuz so mad!—An' served 'em right! Nen-when the Bear got 'way on top The mountain, he heerd somepin' flop Its wings—an' somepin' else he heerd A-rattlin'-like.—An' he wuz skeered, An' looked 'way up, an'-Mercy sake! It wuz a' Eagul an' a SNAKE! An'-sir! the Snake, he bite an' kill' The Eagul, an' they bofe fall till They strike the ground—k'spang-k'spat! Wite where the Bear wuz standin' at! An' when here come the Snake at him. The Bear he think o' little Iim An' Io, he did-an' their ma, too,-All safe at home: an' he ist flew Back down the mountain-an' could hear The old Snake rattlin', sharp an' clear, Wite clos't behind!—An' Bear he's so All tired out, by time, you know, He git down to the river there, He know' he can't swim back to where His folks is at. But ist wite nen

He see a boat an' six big men 'At's been a-shootin' ducks: An' so He skeered them out the boat, you know, An' ist jumped in-an' Snake he tried To jump in, too, but falled outside Where all the water wuz; an' so The Bear grabs one the things you row The boat wiv an' ist whacks the head Of the old Snake an' kills him dead!-An' when he's killed him dead, w'y, nen The old Snake's drownded dead again! Nen Bear set in the boat an' bowed His back an' rowed—an' rowed—an' rowed— Till he's safe home—so tired he can't Do nothin' but lay there an' pant An' tell his childern, "Bresh my coat!" An' tell his wife, "Go chain my boat!" An' they're so glad he's back, they say "They knowed he's comin' thataway To ist su'prise the dear ones there!" An' Jim an' Jo they dried his hair And pulled the burs out; an' their ma She ist set there an' helt his paw Till he wuz sound asleep, an' nen She telled him she won't scold again-

SONG

[w. s.]

ITH a hey! and a hi! and a hey-ho rhyme!

O the shepherd lad
He is ne'er so glad

As when he pipes, in the blossom-time,
So rare!

While Kate picks by, yet looks not there. So rare! so rare!

With a hey! and a hi! and a ho!
The grasses curdle where the daisies blow!

With a hey! and a hi! and a hey-ho vow!

Then he sips her face

At the sweetest place—

And ho! how white is the hawthorn now!—
So rare!—

And the daisied world rocks round them there.

So rare! so rare!

With a hey! and a hi! and a ho!
The grasses curdle where the daisies blow!

II

TO THE CHILD JULIA

[R. H.]

LITTLE Julia, since that we May not as our elders be, Let us blithely fill the days Of our youth with pleasant plays. First we'll up at earliest dawn, While as yet the dew is on The sooth'd grasses and the pied Blossomings of morningtide: Next, with rinsed cheeks that shine As the enamel'd eglantine, We will break our fast on bread With both cream and honey spread: Then, with many a challenge-call, We will romp from house and hall, Gipsying with the birds and bees Of the green-tress'd garden trees. In a bower of leaf and vine Thou shalt be a lady fine Held in duress by the great Giant I shall personate. Next, when many mimics more Like to these we have played o'er, We'll betake us home-along Hand in hand at evensong.

THE DOLLY'S MOTHER

[w. w.]

A LITTLE maid, of summers four—Did you compute her years,—And yet how infinitely more
To me her age appears:

I mark the sweet child's serious air,
At her unplayful play,—
The tiny doll she mothers there
And lulls to sleep away,

Grows—'neath the grave similitude—
An infant real, to me,
And she a saint of motherhood
In hale maturity.

So, pausing in my lonely round,
And all unseen of her,
I stand uncovered—her profound
And abject worshiper.

WIND OF THE SEA

[A. T.]

IND of the Sea, come fill my sail— Lend me the breath of a freshening gale

And bear my port-worn ship away!
For O the greed of the tedious town—
The shutters up and the shutters down!
Wind of the Sea, sweep over the bay
And bear me away!—away!

Whither you bear me, Wind of the Sea, Matters never the least to me: Give me your fogs, with the sails adrip,

Or the weltering path thro' the starless night—

On, somewhere, is a new daylight
And the cheery glint of another ship
As its colors dip and dip!

Wind of the Sea, sweep over the bay And bear me away!—away! V

SUBTLETY

[R. B.]

WHILST little Paul, convalescing, was staying Close indoors, and his boisterous classmates paying

Him visits, with fresh school-notes and surprises.—

With nettling pride they sprung the word "Athletic,"
With much advice and urgings sympathetic
Anent "athletic exercises." Wise as

Lad might look, quoth Paul: "I've pondered o'er that

'Athletic,' but I mean to take, before that, Downstairic and outdooric exercises."

VI

BORN TO THE PURPLE

[w. m.]

MOST-LIKE it was this kingly lad Spake out of the pure joy he had In his child-heart of the wee maid Whose eery beauty sudden laid A spell upon him, and his words Burst as a song of any bird's:—

2096 SOME SONGS AFTER MASTER-SINGERS

A peerless Princess thou shalt be, Through wit of love's rare sorcery: To crown the crown of thy gold hair Thou shalt have rubies, bleeding there Their crimson splendor midst the marred Pulp of great pearls, and afterward Leaking in fainter ruddy stains Adown thy neck-and-armlet-chains Of turquoise, chrysoprase, and mad Light-frenzied diamonds, dartling glad Swift spirits of shine that interfuse As though with lucent crystal dews That glance and glitter like split rays Of sunshine, born of burgeoning Mays When the first bee tilts down the lip Of the first blossom, and the drip Of blended dew and honey heaves Him blinded midst the underleaves. For raiment, Fays shall weave for thee-Out of the phosphor of the sea And the fraved floss of starlight, spun With counterwarp of the firm sun-A vesture of such filmy sheen As, through all ages, never queen Therewith strove truly to make less One fair line of her loveliness. Thus gowned and crowned with gems and gold.

Thou shalt, through centuries untold, Rule, ever young and ever fair, As now thou rulest, smiling there.

CLIMATIC SORCERY

WHEN frost's all on our winder, an' the snow's All out-o'-doors, our "Old-Kriss"-milkman goes

A-drivin' round, ist purt' nigh froze to death, With his old white mustache froze full o' breath.

But when it's summer an' all warm ag'in, He comes a-whistlin' an' a-drivin' in Our alley, 'thout no coat on, ner ain't cold, Ner his mustache ain't white, ner he ain't old.

THE TREASURE OF THE WISE MAN

THE night was dark and the night was late,
And the robbers came to rob him;
And they picked the locks of his palace-gate,
The robbers that came to rob him—
They picked the locks of his palace-gate,
Seized his jewels and gems of state,
His coffers of gold and his priceless plate,—
The robbers that came to rob him.

But loud laughed he in the morning red!—
For of what had the robbers robbed him?—
Ho! hidden safe, as he slept in bed,
When the robbers came to rob him,—
They robbed him not of a golden shred
Of the childish dreams in his wise old head—
"And they're welcome to all things else," he said,
When the robbers came to rob him.

OLD GRANNY DUSK

LD Granny Dusk, when the sun goes down, Here she comes into thish-yer town!
Out o' the wet black woods an' swamps
In she traipses an' trails an' tromps—
With her old sunbonnet all floppy an' brown,
An' her cluckety shoes, an' her old black gown,
Here she comes into thish-yer town!

Old Granny Dusk, when the bats begin To flap around, comes a-trompin' in! An' the katydids they rasp an' whir, An' the lightnin'-bugs all blink at her; An' the old Hop-toad turns in his thumbs, An' the bunglin' June-bug booms an' bums, An' the Bullfrog croaks, "O here she comes!"

Old Granny Dusk, though I'm 'feared o' you, Shore-fer-certain I'm sorry, too: 'Cause you look as lonesome an' starved an' sad As a mother 'at's lost ever' child she had.— Yet never a child in thish-yer town Clings at yer hand er yer old black gown, Er kisses the face you're a-bendin' down.

FIRE AT NIGHT

FIRE! Fire! Ring! and ring! Hear the old bell bang and ding! Fire! Fire! 'way at night,-Can't you hear?-I think you might!-Can't hear them-air clangin' bells?-W'y I can't hear nothin' else! Fire! Ain't you 'wake at last!-Hear them horses poundin' past— Hear that ladder-wagon grind Round the corner!—and, behind, Hear the hose-cart, turnin' short, And the horses slip and snort, As the engine's clank-and-iar Tolts the whole street, near and far. Fire! Fire! Fire! Fire! Can't you h'ist that winder higher? La! they've all got past like "scat!" . . Night's as black as my old hat-And it's rainin' too, at that! . . . Wonder where their old fire's at!

THE YOUNG OLD MAN

VOLUNTARY BY ARTLESS "LITTLE BROTHER"

MAMMA is a widow: There's only us three—Our pretty Mamma, little sister, and me:
And we've come to live in this new neighborhood
Where all seems so quiet, old-fashioned and good.
Mamma sits and sews at the window, and I—
I'm out at the gate when an old man goes by—Such a lovely old man,—though I can't tell you why,

Unless it's his greeting,—"Good morning!
Good morning! good morning!" the old man will say,—

"Fine bracing weather we're having to-day!—
And how's little brother—
And sister—and mother?—
So dear to each other!—
Good morning!"

The old man goes by, in his glossy high-hat,
And stripe-trousers creased, and all turned-up, at that,

And his glancing nose-glasses—and pleasant eyes, As he smiles on me, always in newer surprise:

And though his mustache is as white as the snow,

He wears it waxed out and all pointed, you know, And gloves, and high collar and bright, jaunty bow,

And stylish umbrella.—"Good morning!

Good morning! good morning!" the old man will say.—

"Fine falling weather we're promised to-day!—
And how's little brother—
And sister—and mother?—
So fond of each other!—
Good morning!"

It's Christmas!—it's Christmas! and oh, but we're gay!

The postman's been here, and Ma says, "Run and play:—

You must leave your Mamma to herself for a while!"

And so sweet is her voice, and so tender her smile!—

And she looks so pretty and happy and—Well!—She's just too delicious for language to tell!—So Sis hugs her more—and I answer the bell,—And there in the doorway—"Good morning!—

Good morning! good morning! good morning, I say!—

Fine Christmas weather we're having to-day!—
And how's little brother—
Dear sister—er, ruther—
Why, here is your mother...
Good morning!"

SOME CHRISTMAS YOUNGSTERS

Ι

THE STRENGTH OF THE WEAK

LAST Chris'mus, little Benny
Wuzn't sick so bad,—
Now he's had the worst spell
Ever yet he had.
Ever' Chris'mus-morning, though,
He'll p'tend as if
He's asleep—an' first you know
He's got your "Chris'mus-gif'"!

Pa he's good to all of us
All the time; but when,
Ever' time it's Chris'mus,
He's as good-again!—
'Sides our toys an' candy,
Ever' Chris'mus he Gives us all a quarter,
Certain as can be!

H-10

Pa, this morning, tiptoe' in

To make the fire, you know,

Long 'fore it's daylight,

An' all's ice an' snow!—

An' Benny holler, "Chris'mus-gif'!"

An' Pa jump an' say,

"You'll only git a dollar if

You skeer me thataway!"

II

THE LITTLE QUESTIONER

BABE she's so always
Wantin' more to hear
All about Santy Claus,
An' says: "Mommy dear,
Where's Santy's home at
When he ain't away?—
An' is they Mizzuz Santy Claus
An' little folks—say?—
Chris'mus, Santy's always here—
Don't they want him, too?
When it ain't Chris'mus
What does he do?"

TTT

PARENTAL CHRISTMAS PRESENTS

PARUNTS don't git toys an' things,
Like you'd think they'd ruther.—
Mighty funny Chris'mus-gif's
Parunts gives each other!—
Pa give Ma a barrel o' flour,
An' Ma she give to Pa
The nicest dinin'-table
She know he ever saw!

TWILIGHT STORIES

N EITHER daylight, starlight, moonlight,
But a sad-sweet term of some light
By the saintly name of Twilight.

The Grandma Twingit Stories!—Still,
A childish listener, I hear
The katydid and whippoorwill,
In deepening atmosphere
Of velvet dusk, blent with the low
Soft music of the voice that sings
And tells me tales of long ago
And old enchanted things. . . .

While far fails the last dim daylight, And the fireflies in the Twilight Drift about like flakes of starlight.

"GO READ YOUR BOOK!"

HOW many times that grim old phrase
Has silenced me, in childish days!—
And now—as then it did—
The phantom admonition, clear
And dominant, rings,—and I hear,
And do as I am bid.

"Go read your book!" my good old sire Commanded, in affected ire,
When I, with querying look
And speech, dared vex his studious mind
With idle words of any kind.—
And so I read my book.

Though seldom, in that wisest age, Did I discern on Wisdom's page More than the task: That led At least to thinking, and at last To reading less, and not so fast, And longing as I read.

And lo! in gracious time, I grew
To love a book all through and through!—
With yearning eyes I look

On any volume,—old, maybe,
Or new—'tis meat and drink to me.—
And so I read my book.

Old dog's-eared Readers, scarred and inked With schoolboy hatred, long extinct;—
Old Histories that bored
Me worst of all the school;—old, worn
Arithmetics, frayed, ripped, and torn—
Now Ye are all adored.

And likewise I revere and praise
My sire, as now, with vainest gaze
And hearing, still I look
For the old face so grave yet dear—
Nay, still I see, and still I hear!
And so I read my book.

Next even to my nearest kin,—
My wife—my children romping in
From school to ride my knee,—
I love a book, and dispossess
My lap of it with loathfulness,
For all their love of me.

For, grave or gay the book, it takes
Me as an equal—calms, or makes Me, laughing, overlook
My little self—forgetful all
Of being so exceeding small.
And so I read my book.

WHEN UNCLE DOC WAS YOUNG

THOUGH Doctor Glen—the best of men—
Is wrinkled, old, and gray,
He'll always smile and stop a while
Where little children play:
And often then he tells us, when
He was a youngster, too,
He was as glad and bad a lad
As old folks ever knew!

As he walks down, no boy in town
But sees him half a block,
And stops to shout a welcome out
With "Here comes Uncle Doc!"
Then all the rest, they look their best
As he lines up among Us boys of ten—each thinking then
When Uncle Doc was young.

We run to him!—Though grave and grim, With voice pitched high and thin, He still reveals the joy he feels
In all that he has been:

2110

With heart too true, and honest, too, To ever hide a truth, He frankly owns, in laughing tones, He was "a sorry youth!"—

When he was young, he says, he sung
And howled his level-best;
He says he guyed, and sneaked, and lied,
And wrecked the robin's nest.—
All this, and worse, will he rehearse,
Then smooth his snowy locks
And look the saint he says he ain't. . .
Them eyes of Uncle Doc's!

He says, when he—like you and me—
Was just too low and mean
To slap asleep, he used to weep
To find his face was clean:
His hair, he said, was just too red
To tell with mortal tongue—
"The Burning Shame" was his nickname
When Uncle Doc was young.

THE LISPER

ELSIE MINGUS lisps, she does! She lives wite acrosst from us In Miz. Ayers'uz house 'at she Rents part to the Mingusuz.—Yes, an' Elsie plays wiv me.

Elsie lisps so, she can't say
Her own name, ist anyway!—
She say "Elthy"—like they wuz
Feathers on her words, an' they
Ist stick on her tongue like fuzz.

My! she's purty, though!—An' when She lisps, w'y, she's purty nen!
When she telled me, wunst, her doll Wuz so "thweet," an' I p'ten'
I lisp too,—she laugh'—'at's all!—

She don't never git mad none—'Cause she know I'm ist in fun—Elsie she ain't one bit sp'iled.—Of all childerns—ever' one—She's the ladylikest child!—

My Ma say she is! One time
Elsie start to say the rhyme
"Thing a thong o' thixpenth"—Whee!
I ist yell! An' Ma say I'm Unpolite as I can be!

Wunst I went wiv Ma to call On Elsie's Ma, an' eat an' all; An' nen Elsie, when we've et, An' we're playin' in the hall, Elsie say: It's etikett

Fer young gentlemens, like me,
Eatin' when they's company,
Not to never ever crowd
Down their food, ner "thip their tea
Ner thup thoop so awful loud!"

A MOTTO

THE Brightest Star's the modestest,
And more'n likely writes
His motto like the lightnin'-bug's—
Accordin' To His Lights.

A SIMPLE RECIPE

TO be a wholly worthy man,
As you, my boy, would like to be,—
This is to show you how you can—
This simple recipe:—

Be honest—both in word and act,
Be strictly truthful through and through:
Fact can not fail.—You stick to fact,
And fact will stick to you.

Be clean—outside and in, and sweep
Both hearth and heart and hold them bright;
Wear snowy linen—aye, and keep
Your conscience snowy-white.

Do right, your utmost—good must come
To you who do your level-best—
Your very hopes will help you some,
And work will do the rest.

HER LONESOMENESS

HEN little Elizabeth whispers
Her morning-love to me,
Each word of the little lisper's,
As she clambers on my knee—
Hugs me and whispers, "Mommy,
Oh, I'm so glad it's day
And the night's all gone away!"
How it does thrill and awe me,—
"The night's all gone away!"

"Sometimes I wake, all listenin',"
She sighs, "and all's so still!—
The moon and the stars half-glistenin'
Over the window-sill:—
And I look where the gas's pale light
Is all turned down in the hall—
And you ain't here at all!—
And oh, how I wish it was daylight!
—And you ain't here at all!

"And oh," she goes eerily whining
And laughing, too, as she speaks,
"If only the sun kept shining
For weeks and weeks and weeks!—

For the world's so dark, without you,
And the moon's turned down so low—
'Way in the night, you know,—
And I get so lonesome about you!—
'Way in the night, you know!"

ALMOST BEYOND ENDURANCE

I AIN'T a-goin' to cry no more, no more!

I'm got ear-ache, an' Ma can't make

It quit a-tall;

An' Carlo bite my rubber-ball

An' puncture it; an' Sis she take

An' poke' my knife down through the stable-floor

An' loozed it—blame it all!

But I ain't goin' to cry no more, no more!

An' Aunt Mame wrote she's comin', an' she can't—Folks is come there!—An' I don't care
She is my Aunt!
An' my eyes stings; an' I'm
Ist coughin' all the time,
An' hurts me so; an' where my side's so sore
Grampa felt where, an' he Says "Mayby it's pleurasy!"

But I ain't goin' to cry no more, no more!

An' I clumbed up an' nen falled off the fence, An' Herbert he ist laugh at me! An' my fi'-cents

It sticked in my tin bank, an' I ist tore
Purt' nigh my thumbnail off, a-tryin' to git
It out—nen smash it!—An' it's in there yit!

But I ain't goin' to cry no more, no more!

Oo! I'm so wickud!—An' my breath's so hot—
Ist like I run an' don't res' none
But ist run on when I ought to not;

Yes, an' my chin

An' lips's all warpy, an' teeth's so fast,

An' 's a place in my throat I can't swaller past— An' they all hurt so!—

An' oh, my-oh!

I'm a-startin' ag'in-

I'm a-startin' ag'in, but I won't, fer shore!—
I ist ain't goin' to cry no more, no more!

"I ain't a-goin' to cry no more no more!"

THE TOY-BALLOON

THEY wuz a Big Day wunst in town,
An' little Jason's Pa
Buyed him a little toy-balloon,
The first he ever saw.—
An' oh! but Jase wuz more'n proud,
A-holdin' to the string
An' scrougin' through the grea'-big crowd,
To hear the Glee Club sing.

The Glee Club it wuz goin' to sing In old Masonic Hall;
An' Speakin', it wuz in there, too, An' soldiers, folks an' all:
An' Jason's Pa he git a seat An' set down purty soon,
A-holdin' little Jase, an' him A-holdin' his balloon.

An' while the Speakin' 's startin' up
An' ever'body still—
The first you know wuz little Jase
A-yellin' fit to kill!—
H—11 2119

Nen Jason's Pa jump on his seat An' grab up in the air,— But little Jason's toy-balloon Wuz clean away from there!

An' Jase he yelled; an' Jase's Pa,
Still lookin' up, clumb down—
While that-air little toy-balloon
Went bumpin' roun' an' roun'
Ag'inst the ceilin', 'way up there
Where ever'body saw,
An' they all yelled, an' Jason yelled,
An' little Jason's Pa!

But when his Pa he packed him out
A-screamin'—nen the crowd
Looked down an' hushed—till they looked up
An' howled ag'in out loud;
An' nen the speaker, mad an' pale,
Jist turned an' left the stand,
An' all j'ined in the Glee Club—"Hail,
Columby, Happy Land!"

THE OLD DAYS

THE old days—the far days—
The overdear and fair!—
The old days—the lost days—
How lovely they were!
The old days of Morning,
With the dew-drench on the flowers
And apple-buds and blossoms
Of those old days of ours.

Then was the real gold
Spendthrift Summer flung;
Then was the real song
Bird or Poet sung!
There was never censure then,—
Only honest praise—
And all things were worthy of it
In the old days.

There bide the true friends—
The first and the best;
There clings the green grass
Close where they rest:
Would they were here? No;—
Would we were there! . . .
The old days—the lost days—
How lovely they were!

TO A POET ON HIS MARRIAGE

MADISON CAWEIN

EVER and ever, on and on,
From winter dusk, to April dawn,
This old enchanted world we range
From night to light—from change to change—
Or path of burs or lily-bells,
We walk a world of miracles.

The morning evermore must be A newer, purer mystery—
The dewy grasses, or the bloom
Of orchards, or the wood's perfume
Of wild sweet-williams, or the wet
Blent scent of loam and violet.

How wondrous all the ways we fare—What marvels wait us, unaware!... But yesterday, with eyes ablur And heart that held no hope of Her, You paced the lone path, but the true That led to where she waited you.

LOCKERBIE FAIR

O THE Lockerbie Fair!—Have you heard of its fame

And its fabulous riches, too rare for a name!—
The gold of the noon of the June-time refined
To the Orient-Night, till the eyes and the mind
Are dazed with the sights, in the earth and the air,
Of the opulent splendors of Lockerbie Fair.

What more fortunate fate might to mortal befall, Midst the midsummer beauty and bloom of it all, Than to glit with the moon o'er the rapturous scene And twink with the stars as they laughingly lean O'er the luminous revel and glamour and glare Fused in one dazzling glory at Lockerbie Fair.

The Night, like a queen in her purple and lace, With her diamonded brow, and imperious grace, As she leads her fair votaries, train upon train, A-dance thro' the feasts of this mystic domain To the mandolin's twang, and the warble and blare Of voice, flute and bugle at Lockerbie Fair.

All strange, ever-changing, enchanted delights
Found now in this newer Arabian Nights,—
Where each lovely maid is a Princess, and each
Lucky swain an Aladdin—all treasures in reach
Of the "lamps" and the "rings"—and with Genii to spare,

Simply waiting your orders, at Lockerbie Fair.

THE OLD MAN OF THE SEA

I'M The Old Man of the Sea—I am!—
And this is my secret pride,
That I have a hundred shapes, all sham,
And a hundred names beside:
They have named me "Habit," and "Way," forsooth
"Capricious," and "Fancy-free";—
But to you, O Youth, I confess the truth,—
I'm The Old Man of the Sea.

I'm The Old Man of the Sea, yo-ho!
So lift up a song with me,
As I sit on the throne of your shoulders, alone,
I'm The Old Man of the Sea.

Crowned with the crown of your noblest thought, I'm The Old Man of the Sea:
I reign, rule, ruin, and palter not
In my pitiless tyranny:
You, my lad, are my gay Sindbad,
Frisking about, with me
High on the perch I have always had—
I'm The Old Man of the Sea.

I'm The Old Man of the Sea, yo-ho!
So lift up a song with me,
As I sit on the throne of your shoulders, alone,
I'm The Old Man of the Sea.

Tricked in the guise of your best intent,
I am your failures—all—
I am the victories you invent,
And your high resolves that fall:
I am the vow you are breaking now
As the wassail-bowl swings free
And the red guilt flushes your cheek and brow—
I'm The Old Man of the Sea.

I'm The Old Man of the Sea, yo-ho!
So lift up a song with me,
As I sit on the throne of your shoulders, alone,
I'm The Old Man of the Sea.

I am your false dreams of success
And your mythical future fame—
Your lifelong lies, and your soul's distress
And your slowly-dying shame:
I'm the chattering half of your latest laugh,
And your tongue's last perfidy—
Your doom, your tomb, and your epitaph . . .
I'm The Old Man of the Sea.

I'm The Old Man of the Sea, yo-ho!
So lift up a song with me,
As I sit on the throne of your shoulders, alone,
I'm The Old Man of the Sea.

PROSE OR VERSE?

PROSE or Verse—or Verse or Prose? Ever thus the query goes,— Which delight do we prefer— Which the finer—daintier?

Each incites a zest that grows— Prose or Verse—or Verse or Prose?— Each a lotus-eater's spell Wholly irresistible.

All that wit may fashion, free-Voiced, or piped in melody,— Prose or Verse—or Verse or Prose— Which of these the mastery knows?

'Twere as wise to question, friend—As of this alluring blend,—
The aroma or the rose?—
Prose or Verse—or Verse or Prose?

BILLY MILLER'S CIRCUS-SHOW

↑T Billy Miller's Circus-Show— In their old stable where it's at-The boys pays twenty pins to go, An' gits their money's-worth at that!-'Cause Billy he can climb and chalk His stockin'-feet an' purt' nigh walk A tight-rope—yes, an' ef he fall He'll ketch, an' "skin a cat"-'at's all!

He ain't afeard to swing and hang Ist by his legs!—an' mayby stop An' yell "Look out!" an' nen-k-spang!-He'll let loose, upside-down, an' drop Wite on his hands! An' nen he'll do "Contortion-acts"-ist limber through As "Injarubber Mens" 'at goes With shore-fer-certain circus-shows!

At Billy Miller's Circus-Show He's got a circus-ring-an' they's A dressin'-room,-so's he can go An' dress an' paint up when he plays 2128

He's somepin' else;—'cause sometimes he's "Ringmaster"—bossin' like he please—An' sometimes "Ephalunt"—er "Bare-Back Rider," prancin' out o' there!

An' sometimes—an' the best of all!—
He's "The Old Clown," an got on clo'es
All stripud,—an' white hat, all tall
An' peakud—like in shore-'nuff shows,—
An' got three-cornered red-marks, too,
On his white cheeks—ist like they do!—
An' you'd ist die, the way he sings
An' dances an' says funny things!

IT'S GOT TO BE

"HEN it's got to be,"—like I always say,
As I notice the years whiz past,
And know each day is a yesterday,
When we size it up, at last,—
Same as I said when my boyhood went
And I knowed we had to quit,—
"It's got to be, and it's goin' to be!"—
So I said "Good-by" to it.

It's got to be, and it's goin' to be!
So at least I always try
To kind o' say in a hearty way,—
"Well, it's got to be. Good-by!"

The time just melts like a late, last snow,—
When it's got to be, it melts!
But I aim to keep a cheerful mind,
Ef I can't keep nothin' else!
I knowed, when I come to twenty-one,
That I'd soon be twenty-two,—
So I waved one hand at the soft young man,
And I said, "Good-by to you!"

It's got to be, and it's goin' to be!
So at least I always try
To kind o' say, in a cheerful way,—
"Well, it's got to be.—Good-by!"

They kep' a-goin', the years and years,
Yet still I smiled and smiled,—
For I'd said "Good-by" to my single life,
And now had a wife and child:
Mother and son and the father—one,—
Till, last, on her bed of pain,
She jes' smiled up, like she always done,—
And I said "Good-by" again.

It's got to be, and it's goin' to be!
So at least I always try
To kind o' say, in a humble way,—
"Well, it's got to be. Good-by!"

And then my boy—as he growed to be Almost a man in size,—
Was more than a pride and joy to me,
With his mother's smilin' eyes.—
He gimme the slip, when the War broke out,
And followed me. And I
Never knowed till the first fight's end . . .
I found him, and then, . . . "Good-by."

It's got to be, and it's goin' to be!
So at least I always try
To kind o' say in a patient way,
"Well, it's got to be. Good-by!"

I have said, "Good-by!—Good-by!"
With my very best good will,
All through life from the first,—and I
Am a cheerful old man still:
But it's got to end, and it's goin' to end!
And this is the thing I'll do,—
With my last breath I will laugh, O Death,
And say "Good-by" to you! . . .

It's got to be! And again I say,—
When his old scythe circles high,
I'll laugh—of course, in the kindest way,—
As I say "Good-by!—Good-by!"

CHRISTMAS SEASON

TO A FRIEND VISITING ENGLAND

THIS is a Christmas carol—
A late one, it is true,—
But (dight in Truth's apparel)
The best that we can do:—
The best our Muse belated
Thus offers, antedated,—
E'en as the old waits waited
We, waiting, sing for you.

So, haply, you may listen,
As 'twere, with Fancy's ear,
And shape such songs of this-un
As were worth worlds to hear,—
Such anthemings ecstatic
As scaled The Mermaid's attic
In midnight's aromatic
Of choicest Christmas cheer:

Such songs as Marlowe lifted,
With throstle-throated Will
And rare Ben, as they shifted
Their laughing voices till

The mirth, with music blended, So oversweet ascended, It well were never ended— And, hark!—you hear it still!...

You hear it; aye, and love it!—
Beyond all voices dear—
Your master's!—none above it.—
So harken, and so hear!—
Your master's English.—Surely
No other rests so purely
On Fame, or more securely,—
O English of Shakespeare!

ART AND POETRY

TO HOMER C. DAVENPORT

ESS he says, and sort o' grins, "Art and Poetry is twins!

"Yit, if I'd my pick, I'd shake Poetry, and no mistake!

"Pictures, allus 'peared to me, Clean laid over Poetry!

"Let me draw, and then, i jings, I'll not keer a straw who sings.

"'F I could draw as you have drew, Like to jes' swap pens with you!

"Picture-drawin' 's my pet vision Of Life-work in Lands Elysian.

"Pictures is first language we Find hacked out in History.

"Most delight we ever took Was in our first Picture-book.

"'Thout the funny picture-makers, They'd be lots more undertakers!

"Still, as I say, Rhymes and Art 'Smighty hard to tell apart.

"Songs and pictures go together Same as birds and summer weather."

So Wess says, and sort o' grins, "Art and Poetry is twins."

THE CHILDREN OF THE CHILDLESS

THE Children of the Childless!—Yours—and mine.—

Yea, though we sit here in the pitying gaze
Of fathers and mothers whose fond fingers twine
Their children's locks of living gold, and praise
With warm, caressing palms, the head of brown,
Or crown

Of opulent auburn, with its amber floss In all its splendor loosed and jostled down Across

The mother-lap at prayer.—Yea, even when
These sweet petitioners are kissed, and then
Are kissed and kissed again—
The pursed mouths lifted with the worldlier prayer
That bed and oblivion spare
Them yet a little while
Beside their envied elders by the glow
Of the glad firelight; or wresting, as they go,
Some promise for the morrow, to beguile
Their long exile
Within the wild waste lands of dream and sleep.
Nay, nay, not even these most stably real

Of children are more loved than our ideal-

THE CHILDREN OF THE CHILDLESS 2137

More tangible to the soul's touch and sight
Than these—our children by Divine birthright. . . .
These—these of ours, who soothe us, when we weep,

With tenderest ministries,
Or, flashing into smiling ecstasies,
Come dashing through our tears—ay, laughing leap
Into our empty arms, in Fate's despite,
And nestle to our hearts. O Heaven's delight!—
The children of the childless—even these!

HOOSIER SPRING-POETRY

WHEN ever'thing's a-goin' like she's gota-goin' now,—

The maple-sap a-drippin', and the buds on ever' bough

A-sort o' reachin' up'ards all a-tremblin', ever' one, Like 'bout a million Brownie-fists a-shakin' at the sun!

The childern wants their shoes off 'fore their breakfast, and the Spring

Is here so good-and-plenty that the old hen has to sing!—

When things is goin' thisaway, w'y, that's the sign, you know,

That ever'thing's a-goin' like we like to see her go!

Oh, ever'thing's a-goin' like we like to see her go!
Old Winter's up and dusted, with his dratted frost and snow—

The ice is out the crick ag'in, the freeze is out the ground,

And you'll see faces thawin' too ef you'll jes' look around!—

- The bluebird's landin' home ag'in, and glad to git the chance,
- 'Cause here's where he belongs at, that's a settled circumstance!
- And him and mister robin now's a-chunin' fer the show.
- Oh, ever'thing's a-goin' like we like to see her go!
- The sun ain't jes' p'tendin' now!—The ba'm is in the breeze—
- The trees'll soon be green as grass, and grass as green as trees;
- The buds is all jes' eechin', and the dogwood down the run
- Is bound to bu'st out laughin' 'fore another week is done:
- The bees is wakin', gap'y-like, and fumblin' fer their buzz.
- A-thinkin' ever-wakefuler, of other days that wuz,-
- When all the land wuz orchard-blooms and clover, don't you know. . . .
- Oh, ever'thing's a-goin' like we like to see her go!

THE VOICE OF PEACE

INDEPENDENCE BELL: INDIANAPOLIS, NOVEMBER 17, 1904

THOUGH now forever still
Your voice of jubilee—
We hear—we hear, and ever will,
The Bell of Liberty!
Clear as the voice to them
In that far night agone
Pealed from the heavens o'er Bethlehem,
The voice of Peace peals on!

Stir all your memories up,
O Independence Bell,
And pour from your inverted cup
The song we love so well!
As you rang in the dawn
Of Freedom—tolled the knell
Of Tyranny,—ring on—ring on—
O Independence Bell!

Ring numb the wounds of wrong
Unhealed in brain and breast;
With music like a slumber-song
Lull tearful eyes to rest.—
Ring! Independence Bell!
Ring on till worlds to be
Shall listen to the tale you tell
Of Love and Liberty!

A DEFECTIVE SANTA CLAUS

Little Boy! Halloo!—halloo!

Can't you hear me calling you?—

Little Boy that used to be,

Come in here and play with me.

ALLUS when our Pa he's away A Nen Uncle Sidney comes to stay At our house here-so Ma an' me An' Etty an' Lee-Bob won't be Afeared ef anything at night Might happen-like Ma says it might. (Ef Trip wuz big, I bet you he 'Uz best watch-dog you ever see!) An' so last winter-ist before It's go' to be Chris'mus-Day, -w'y, shore Enough, Pa had to haf to go To 'tend a lawsuit—"An' the snow Ist right fer Santy Claus!" Pa said, As he clumb in old Aversuz sled, An' said he's sorry he can't be With us that night-"'Cause," he-says-ee, "Old Santy might be comin' here-This very night of all the year I' got to be away!—so all

You kids must tell him—ef he call—He's mighty welcome, an' yer Pa He left his love with you an' Ma An' Uncle Sid!" An' clucked, an' leant Back, laughin'—an' away they went! An' Uncle wave' his hands an' yells "Yer old horse ort to have on bells!" But Pa yell back an' laugh an' say "I 'spect when Santy come this way It's time enough fer sleighbells nen!" An' holler back "Good-by!" again, An' reach out with the driver's whip An' cut behind an' drive back Trip.

An' so all day it snowed an' snowed! An' Lee-Bob he ist watched the road. In his high-chair; an' Etty she 'Ud play with Uncle Sid an' me-Like she wuz he'ppin' fetch in wood An' keepin' old fire goin' good, Where Ma she wuz a-cookin' there In kitchen, too, an' ever'where! An' Uncle say, "'At's ist the way Yer Ma's b'en workin', night an' day, Sence she hain't big as Etty is Er Lee-Bob in that chair o' his!" Nen Ma she'd laugh 't what Uncle said. An' smack an' smoove his old bald head An' say "Clear out the way till I Can keep that pot from b'ilin' dry!" Nen Uncle, when she's gone back to

The kitchen, says, "We ust to do Some cookin' in the ashes.—Say, S'posin' we try some, thataway!" An' nen he send us to tell Ma Send two big 'taters in he saw Pa's b'en a-keepin' 'cause they got The premiun at the Fair! An' what You think?—He rake a grea'-big hole In the hot ashes, an' he roll Them old big 'taters in the place An' rake the coals back-an' his face Ist swettin' so's he purt' nigh swear 'Cause it's so hot! An' when they're there 'Bout time 'at we fergit 'em, he Ist rake 'em out again-an' gee!-He bu'st 'em with his fist wite on A' old stove-led, while Etty's gone To git the salt, an' butter, too-Ist like he said she haf to do. No matter what Ma say! An' so He salt an' butter 'em, an' blow 'Em cool enough fer us to eat-An' me-o-my! they're hard to beat! An' Trip 'ud ist lay there an' pant Like he'd laugh out loud, but he can't. Nen Uncle fill his pipe—an' we 'Ud he'p him light it—Sis an' me,— But mostly little Lee-Bob, 'cause "He's the best Lighter ever wuz!" Like Uncle telled him wunst when Lee-Bob cried an' jerked the light from me,

He wuz so mad! So Uncle pat An' pet him (Lee-Bob's ust to that-'Cause he's the little-est, you know, An' allus has b'en humored so!) Nen Uncle gits the flat-arn out, An', while he's tellin' us all 'bout Old Chris'mus-times when he's a kid. He ist cracked hickernuts, he did, Till they's a crockful, mighty nigh! An' when they're all done by an' by, He raked the red coals out again An' telled me, "Fetch that popcorn in, An' old three-leggud skillut-an' The led an' all now, little man,-An' yer old Uncle here 'ull show You how corn's popped, long years ago When me an' Santy Claus wuz boys On Pap's old place in Illinoise!-An' your Pa, too, wuz chums, all through, With Santy!-Wisht Pa'd be here, too!" Nen Uncle sigh at Ma, an' she Pat him again, an' say to me An' Etty,-"You take warning fair!-Don't talk too much, like Uncle there, Ner don't fergit, like him, my dears, That 'little pitchers has big ears!'" But Uncle say to her, "Clear out!-Yer brother knows what he's about.-You git your Chris'mus-cookin' done Er these pore childern won't have none!" Nen Trip wake' up an' raise', an' nen

Turn roun' an' nen lay down again. An' one time Uncle Sidney say,-"When dogs is sleepin' thataway, Like Trip, an' whimpers, it's a sign He'll ketch eight rabbits-mayby nine-Afore his fleas'll wake him-nen He'll bite hisse'f to sleep again An' try to dream he's go' ketch ten." An' when Ma's gone again back in The kitchen, Uncle scratch his chin An' say, "When Santy Claus an' Pa An' me wuz little boys-an' Ma, When she's 'bout big as Etty there;-W'y,-'When we're growed-no matter where,' Santy he cross' his heart an' say,-'I'll come to see you, all, some day When you' got childerns-all but me An' pore old Sid!" Nen Uncle he Ist kind o' shade his eyes an' pour' 'Bout forty-'leven bushels more O' popcorn out the skillut there In Ma's new basket on the chair. An' nen he telled us-an' talk' low, "So Ma can't hear," he say:- "You know Yer Pa know', when he drived away, To-morry's go' to be Chris'mus-Day;— Well, nen to-night," he whisper, "see?-It's go' be Chris'mus-Eve," says-ee, "An', like yer Pa hint, when he went, Old Santy Claus (now hush!) he's sent Yer Pa a postul-card, an' write

He's shorely go' be here to-night. . . . That's why yer Pa's so bored to be Away to-night, when Santy he Is go' be here, sleighbells an' all, To make you kids a Chris'mus-call!" An' we're so glad to know fer shore He's comin', I roll on the floor-An' here come Trip a-waller'n' roun' An' purt' nigh knock the clo'eshorse down!-An' Etty grab Lee-Bob an' prance All roun' the room like it's a dance-Till Ma she come an' march us nen To dinner, where we're still again, But tickled so we ist can't eat But pie, an' ist the hot mincemeat With raisins in.—But Uncle et, An' Ma. An' there they set an' set Till purt' nigh supper-time; nen we Tell him he's got to fix the Tree 'Fore Santy gits here, like he said. We go nen to the old woodshed-All bundled up, through the deep snow-"An' snowin' yet, jee-rooshy-O!" Uncle he said, an' he'p us wade Back where's the Chris'mus-Tree he's made Out of a little jackoak-top He git down at the sawmill-shop-An' Trip 'ud run ahead, you know, An' 'tend-like he 'uz eatin' snow-When we all waddle back with it: An' Uncle set it up-an' git

It wite in front the fireplace—'cause He says "'Tain't so 'at Santy Claus Comes down all chimblies,—least, to-night He's comin' in this house all right—By the front-door, as ort to be!—We'll all be hid where we can see!" Nen he look up, an' he see Ma An' say, "It's ist too bad their Pa Can't be here, so's to see the fun The childern will have, ever' one!"

Well, we!-We hardly couldn't wait Till it wuz dusk, an' dark an' late Enough to light the lamp!-An' Lee-Bob light a candle on the Tree-"Ist one—'cause I'm 'The Lighter'!"—Nen He clumb on Uncle's knee again An' hug us bofe :-- an' Etty git Her little chist an' set on it Wite clos't, while Uncle telled some more 'Bout Santy Claus, an' clo'es he wore "All maked o' furs, an' trimmed as white As cotton is, er snow at night!" An' nen, all sudden-like, he say,-"Hush! Listen there! Hain't that a sleigh An' sleighbells jinglin'?" Trip go "whooh!" Like he hear beels and smell 'em, too. Nen we all listen. . . . An'-sir, shore Enough, we hear bells-more an' more A-jinglin' clos'ter—clos'ter still Down the old crook-road roun' the hill.

An' Uncle he jumps up, an' all The chairs he jerks back by the wall An' th'ows a' overcoat an' pair O' winder-curtains over there An' says, "Hide quick, er you're too late!-Them bells is stoppin' at the gate!-Git back o' them-'air chairs an' hide, 'Cause I hear Santy's voice outside!" An' Bang! bang! we heerd the door-Nen it flewed open, an' the floor Blowed full o' snow—that's first we saw. Till little Lee-Bob shriek' at Ma "There's Santy Claus!-I know him by His big white mufftash!"-an' ist cry An' laugh an' squeal an' dance an' yell-Till, when he quiet down a spell, Old Santy bow an' th'ow a kiss To him-an' one to me an' Sis-An' nen go clos't to Ma an' stoop An' kiss her—An' nen give a whoop That fainted her!—'Cause when he bent An' kiss her, he ist backed an' went Wite 'g'inst the Chris'mus-Tree ist where The candle's at Lee-Bob lit there!-An' set his white-fur belt afire-An' blaze streaked roun' his waist an' higher Wite up his old white beard an' th'oat!-Nen Uncle grabs th' old overcoat An' flops it over Santy's head, An' swing the door wide back an' said, "Come out, old man!—an' quick about

It!-I've ist got to put you out!" An' out he sprawled him in the snow-"Now roll!" he says-"Hi-roll-ee-O!"-An' Santy, sputter'n' "Ouch! Gee-whiz!" Ist roll an' roll fer all they is! An' Trip he's out there, too .- I know. 'Cause I could hear him vappin' so-An' I heerd Santy, wunst er twic't, Say, as he's rollin', "Drat the fice't!" Nen Uncle come back, an' shake Ma up, an' say, "Fer mercy-sake!-He hain't hurt none!" An' nen he said.-"You youngsters h'ist up-stairs to bed!— Here! kiss yer Ma 'Good night,' an' me,-We'll he'p old Santy fix the Tree-An' all yer whistles, horns an' drums I'll he'p you toot when morning comes!"

It's long while 'fore we go to sleep,—
'Cause down-stairs, all-time somepin' keep
A-kind o' scufflin' roun' the floors—
An' openin' doors, an' shettin' doors—
An' could hear Trip a-whinin', too,
Like he don't know ist what to do—
An' tongs a-clakin' down k'thump!—
Nen some one squonkin' the old pump—
An' Wooh! how cold it soun' out there!—
I could ist see the pump-spout where
It's got ice chin-whiskers all wet
An' drippy—An' I see it yet!
An' nen, seem-like, I hear some mens

A-talkin' out there by the fence, An' one says, "Oh, 'bout twelve o'clock!" "Nen," 'nother'n' says, "Here's to you, Doc!-God bless us ever one!" An' nen I heerd the old pump squonk again. An' nen I say my prayer all through Like Uncle Sidney learn' me to,-"O Father mine, e'en as Thine own, This child looks up to Thee alone: Asleep or waking, give him still His Elder Brother's wish and will." An' that's the last I know . . . Till Ma She's callin' us—an' so is Pa.— He holler "Chris'mus-gif'!" an' say,— "I'm got back home fer Chris'mus-Day!-An' Uncle Sid's here, too-an' he Is nibblin' 'roun' yer Chris'mus-Tree!" Nen Uncle holler, "I suppose Yer Pa's so proud he's froze his nose He wants to turn it up at us, 'Cause Santy kick' up such a fuss-Tetchin' hisse'f off same as ef He wuz his own fireworks hisse'f!"

An' when we're down-stairs,—shore enough Pa's nose is froze, an' salve an' stuff All on it—an' one hand's froze, too, An' got a old yarn red-and-blue Mitt on it—"An' he's froze some more Acrost his chist, an' kind o' sore All roun' his dy-fram," Uncle say.—

H--13

"But Pa he'd ort a-seen the way Santy bear up last night when that-Air fire break out, an' quicker'n scat He's all a-blazin', an' them-'air Gun-cotton whiskers that he wear Ist flashin'!-till I burn a hole In the snow with him, an' he roll The front-yard dry as Chris'mus jokes Old parents plays on little folks! But, long's a smell o' tow er wool, I kep' him rollin' beautiful!-Till I wuz shore I shorely see He's squenched! W'y, hadn't b'en fer me. That old man might a-burnt clear down Clean—plum'—level with the groun'!" Nen Ma say, "There, Sid; that'll do!-Breakfast is ready—Chris'mus, too.— Your voice 'ud soun' best, sayin' Grace-Say it." WHAT LITTLE SAUL GOT, CHRISTMAS

S parents mostly thinks our own's
The smartest children out!
But Widder Shelton's little Saul
Beats all I know about!
He's weakly-like—in p'int o' health,
But strong in word and deed
And heart and head, and snap and spunk,
And allus in the lead!

Comes honest by it, fer his Pa—
Afore he passed away—
He was a leader—(Lord, I'd like
To hear him preach to-day!)
He led his flock; he led in prayer
Fer spread o' Peace—and when
Nothin' but War could spread it, he
Was first to lead us then!

So little Saul has grit to take Things jes' as they occur;
And Sister Shelton's proud o' him
As he is proud o' her!

2154 WHAT LITTLE SAUL GOT, CHRISTMAS

And when she "got up"—jes' fer him And little playmates all— A Chris'mas-tree—they ever'one Was there but little Saul.

Pore little chap was sick in bed
Next room; and Doc was there,
And said the children might file past,
But go right back to where
The tree was, in the settin'-room.
And Saul jes' laid and smiled—
Ner couldn't nod, ner wave his hand,
It hurt so—Bless the child!

And so they left him there with Doc—
And warm tear of his Ma's . . .
Then—suddent-like—high over all
Their laughture and applause—
They heerd: "I don't care what you git
On yer old Chris'mus-tree,
'Cause I'm got somepin' you all hain't—
I'm got the pleurisy!"

"Saul jes' laid and smiled"

GENERAL LEW WALLACE

FEBRUARY 15, 1905

AY, Death, thou mightiest of all
Dread conquerors—thou dreadest chief,—
Thy heavy hand can here but fall
Light as the Autumn leaf:
As vainly, too, its weight is laid
Upon the warrior's knightly sword;—
Still through the charge and cannonade
It flashes for the Lord.

In forum—as in battle-field—
His voice rang for the truth—the right—
Keyed with the shibboleth that pealed
His Soul forth to the fight:
The inspiration of his pen
Glowed as a star, and lit anew
The faces and the hearts of men
Watching, the long night through.

A destiny ordained—divine
It seemed to hosts of those who saw
His rise since youth and marked the line
Of his ascent with awe:—

From the now-storied little town
That gave him birth and worth, behold,
Unto this day of his renown,
His sword and word of gold.

Serving the Land he loved so well—
Hailed midsea or in foreign port,
Or in strange-bannered citadel
Or Oriental Court,—
He—honored for his Nation's sake,
And loved and honored for his own—
Hath seen his Flag in glory shake

ON READING DR. HENRY VAN DYKE'S VOLUME OF POEMS—MUSIC

MUSIC!—Yea, and the airs you play—
Out of the faintest Far-Away
And the sweetest, too; and the dearest Here,
With its quavering voice but its bravest cheer—
The prayer that aches to be all expressed—
The kiss of love at its tenderest:
Music—music, with glad heart-throbs
Within it; and music with tears and sobs
Shaking it, as the startled soul
Is shaken at shriek of the fife and roll
Of the drums;—then as suddenly lulled again
With the whisper and lisp of the summer rain:
Mist of melodies fragrance-fine—
The bird-song flicked from the eglantine
With the dews when the springing bramble throws

A rarer drench on its ripest rose,
And the winged song soars up and sinks
To the dove's dim coo by the river-brinks
Where the ripple's voice still laughs along
Its glittering path of light and song.
Music, O Poet, and all your own
By right of capture and that alone,—

For in it we hear the harmony Born of the earth and the air and the sea, And over and under it, and all through, We catch the chime of The Anthem, too.

HER SMILE OF CHEER AND VOICE OF SONG

ANNA HARRIS RANDALL

S PRING fails, in all its bravery of brilliant gold and green,—

The sun, the grass, the leafing tree, and all the dazzling scene

Of dewy morning—orchard blooms, And woodland blossoms and perfumes With bird-songs sown between.

Yea, since she smiles not any more, so every flowery thing

Fades, and the birds seem brooding o'er her silence as they sing—

Her smile of cheer and voice of song Seemed so divinely to belong To ever-joyous Spring!

Nay, still she smiles.—Our eyes are blurred and see not through our tears:

And still her rapturous voice is heard, though not of mortal ears:—

Now ever doth she smile and sing Where Heaven's unending Clime of Spring Reclaims those gifts of hers.

THINKIN' BACK

I'VE be'n thinkin' back, of late,
S'prisin'!—And I'm here to state
I'm suspicious it's a sign
Of age, maybe, er decline
Of my faculties,—and yit
I'm not feelin' old a bit—
Any more than sixty-four
Ain't no young man any more!

Thinkin' back's a thing 'at grows
On a feller, I suppose—
Older 'at he gits, i jack,
More he keeps a-thinkin' back!
Old as old men git to be,
Er as middle-aged as me,
Folks'll find us, eye and mind
Fixed on what we've left behind—
Rehabilitatin'-like
Them old times we used to hike
Out barefooted fer the crick,
'Long 'bout Aprile first—to pick
Out some "warmest" place to go
In a-swimmin'—Ooh! my-oh!

"Thinkin' back's a thing 'at grows"

Wonder now we hadn't died! Grate horseradish on my hide Jes' a-thinkin' how cold then That-'ere worter must 'a' be'n!

Thinkin' back-W'y, goodness me! I kin call their names and see Every little tad I played With, er fought er was afraid Of, and so made him the best Friend I had of all the rest! Thinkin' back, I even hear Them a-callin', high and clear, Up the crick-banks, where they seem Still hid in there-like a dream-And me still a-pantin' on The green pathway they have gone! Still they hide, by bend er ford-Still they hide-but, thank the Lord (Thinkin' back, as I have said), I hear laughin' on ahead!

SIS RAPALYE

HEN rainy-greener shoots the grass
And blooms the cherry tree,
And children laugh by glittering brooks,
Wild with the ecstasy
Of bursting Spring, with twittering bird
And hum of honey-bee,—
"Sis Rapalye!" my spirit shouts . . .
And she is here with me!

As laugh the children, so her laugh
Haunts all the atmosphere;—
Her song is in the brook's refrain;
Her glad eyes, flashing clear,
Are in the morning dews; her speech
Is melody so dear,
The bluebird trills,—"Sis Rapalye!—
I hear!—I hear!—I hear!"

Again in races, at "Recess,"
I see her braided hair
Toss past me as I stay to lift
Her straw hat, fallen there;
The school-bell sends a vibrant pang
My heart can hardly bear.—
Yet still she leads—Sis Rapalye—
And leads me everywhere!

Now I am old.—Yet she remains
The selfsame child of ten.—
Gay, gallant little girl, to race
On into Heaven then!
Yet gallant, gay Sis Rapalye—
In blossom-time, and when
The trees and grasses beckon her—
Comes back to us again.

And so, however long since youth
Whose raptures wild and free
An old man's heart may claim no more,—
With more than memory
I share the Spring's own joy that brings
My boyhood back to me
With laughter, blossoms, singing birds
And sweet Sis Rapalye.

TO BLISS CARMAN

HE is the morning's poet—
The bard of mount and moor,
The minstrel fine of dewy shine,
The dawning's troubadour:

The brother of the bluebird,
'Mid blossoms, throng on throng,
Whose singing calls, o'er orchard walls,
Seem glitterings of song.

He meets, with brow uncovered,
The sunrise through the mist,
With raptured eyes that range the skies
And seas of amethyst:

The breezy wood receives

Him as the guest she loves the best

And laughs through all her leaves:

Pan and his nymphs and dryads
They hear, in breathless pause,
This earth-born wight lilt his delight,
And envy him because . . .

He is the morning's poet—
The bard of mount and moor,
The minstrel fine of dewy shine,
The dawning's troubadour.

A SONG O' CHEER

Y Grampa he's a-allus sayin', "Sing a song o' cheer!"-And wunst I says "What kind is them?" He says,—"The kind to hear.— 'Cause they're the songs that Nature sings. In ever' bird that twitters!" "Well, whipperwills and doves," says I, "Hain't over-cheery critters!" "Then don't you sing like them," he says-"Ner quinny-hens, my dear-Ner peafowls nuther (drat the boy!) You sing a song o' cheer!" I can't sing nothin' anyhow; But, comin' home, to'rds night, I kind o' sort o' kep' a-whistlin' "Old-Bob-White!"

CHILD'S CHRISTMAS CAROL

C HRIST used to be like you and me, When just a lad in Galilee,— So when we pray, on Christmas Day, He favors first the prayers we say: Then waste no tear, but pray with cheer, This gladdest day of all the year:

O Brother mine of birth Divine, Upon this natal day of Thine Bear with our stress of happiness Nor count our reverence the less Because with glee and jubilee Our hearts go singing up to Thee.

I' GOT TO FACE MOTHER TO-DAY!

I' GOT to face Mother to-day, fer a fact!—
I' got to face Mother to-day!
And jes' how I'll dare to, an' how she will act,
Is more than a mortal can say!
But I' got to face her—I' got to! And so

And Pink and Wade's gone to the farm fer her now—

And I'm keepin' house fer 'em here—
Their purty, new house—and all paid fer!—But how

Am I goin' to meet her, and clear
Uy my actchully he'ppin' 'em both to elope?—
('Cause Mother wuz set—and wuz no other hope!)

I don' think it's Wade she's so biased ag'in',
But his bizness,—a railroadin' man
'At runs a switch-engine, day out and day in,
And's got to make hay while he can,—
It's a dangersome job, I'll admit,—but see what
A fine-furnished home 'at he's already got!

And Pink—W'y, the girl wuz just pinin' away,—So what could her old father do,

When he found her, hid-like, in a loose load of hay, But jes' to drive on clean into

The aidge of the city, where—singular thing!— Wade switched us away to the Squire, i jing!

Now—a-leavin' me here—they're driv off, with a cheer,

On their weddin'-trip—which is to drive Straight home and tell Mother, and tol her back here

And surrender me, dead er alive!
So I'm waitin' here—not so blame' overly gay
As I wuz,—'cause I' got to face Mother to-day!

NAME US NO NAMES NO MORE

Sing the hilarity and delight
Of our childhood's gurgling, giggling days!
When our eyes were as twinkling-keen and bright
And our laughs as thick as the stars at night,
And our breasts volcanoes of pent hoo-rays!
When we grouped together in secret mirth
And sniggered at everything on earth—
But specially when strange visitors came
And we learned, for instance, that their name was Fishback—or Mothershead—or Philpott—
or Dalrymple—or Fullenwider—or Applewhite—or Hunnicut—or Tubbs—or Oldshoe!

"'Oldshoe!'—jeminy-jee!" thinks we—
"Hain't that a funny name!—tee-hee-hee!"

Barefoot racers from everywhere,
We'd pelt in over the back-porch floor
For "the settin'-room," and cluster there
Like a clot of bees round an apple-core,
And sleeve our noses, and pinafore
Our smearcase-mouths, and slick our hair,
And stare and listen, and try to look 2170

Like "Agnes" does in the old school-book,—
Till at last we'd catch the visitor's name,— Reddinhouse, Lippscomb, or Burlingame,— or Winkler—or Smock—or Tutewiler—or Daubenspeck—or Throckmorton—or Rubottom
—or Bixler—

"'Bixler!' jeminy-jee!" thinks we—
"Hain't that a funny name!—tee-hee-hee!"

Peace!—Let be!—Fall away!—Fetch loose!—
We can't have fun as we had fun then!—
Shut up, Memory!—what's the use?—
When the girls and boys of 8 and 10
Are now—well, matronly, or old men,

And Time has (so to say) "cooked our goose"!
But ah! if we only could have back
The long-lost laughs that we now so lack
And so vainly long for,—how—we—could
Naturely wake up the neigh-ber-hood,

over the still heterogenious names ever unrolling from the endless roster of orthographic actualities,—such names—for further instance of good faith—simply such names as Vander-lip—or Funkhouser—or Smoot—or Galbreath—or Frybarger—or Dinwiddie—or Bouslog—or Puterbaugh—or Longnecker—or Hartpence—or Wiggins—or Pangborn—or Bowersox—

"Bowersox"! Gee!—But alas! now we Taste salt tears in our "tee-hee-hee"!

HENRY IRVING

OCTOBER 13, 1905

'TIS Art reclaims him! By those gifts of hers
With which so nobly she endowed his mind,
He brought back Shakespeare, in quick grief and glee—

Tasting the world's salt tears and sweet applause,—For, even as through his master's, so there ran Through all his multitudinous characters Kinship and love and honor of mankind. So all mankind shall grace his memory In musing proudly: Great as his genius was, Great likewise was the man.

LINCOLN—THE BOY

OSIMPLE as the rhymes that tell
The simplest tales of youth,
Or simple as a miracle
Beside the simplest truth—
So simple seems the view we share
With our Immortals, sheer
From Glory looking down to where
They were as children here.

Or thus we know, nor doubt it not,
The boy he must have been
Whose budding heart bloomed with the thought
All men are kith and kin—
With love-light in his eyes and shade
Of prescient tears:—Because
Only of such a boy were made
The loving man he was.

NICHOLAS OBERTING

A hero of ancient mold is Nicholas Oberting, of Hardentown, Indiana, who, a few days ago, in saving three boys from being gored to death by his infuriated bull, performed a feat of daring comparable only with the valorous deeds of Roman gladiators. . . .

-Indianapolis Star.

Sing! O Voice of Valor, sing!— Sing of Nicholas Oberting! Giant of the strength of ten, Yet the gentlest of all men.

He it was that loved the air,
And the green fields everywhere—
Loved the meadow slopes and rills,
And the cattle on the hills—
Loved all out-o'-doors, and took Off his hat, with reverent look,
As the balmy winds of Spring
Waved the peach-bough, blossoming
At the orchard edge, where he Paused to mark the minstrelsy
Of the daring first redbreast,
Whose lilt, at its loveliest,

Was not lovelier to hear Than the laughter, ringing near, Of child-voices-Truants,-three Little stragglers, he could see, Crossing the near pasture-land Loiteringly, hand in hand, Laughing as they came. . . . Until-Sudden ran a sickening chill Through the strong man's heart! . . . He heard Scarce his own voice, afterward, For the maddened, bellowing roar Of the monster beast that bore Down upon the lads. . . . Out rang His quick warning.—Then he sprang Forth to meet them, crying, "Run!-Straight for me!-Come on!-Well done!"-Praised them-cheered them.-"Good! Hooray! Now, Red-top, you throw away That cap! but don't"—And breathless hung The sentence;—for a root had flung The youngster—stunned—prone on the ground . . . Then—midst a trampling, thund'rous sound, The bellowing beast, with his big bent head, And great horns, white as his eyes were red!-Charged for the lad, as he helpless lav . . . There was a leap then; and—they say (For but one boy had swooned away)-There was the leap and the laugh of a Man . . . And the bravest war of the world began: Pinned by the horns in the Hercules grip Of his master—the slavering jaws adrip.

The foaming, steaming, sweltering, hotMouthed monster raged and charged and fought,—
But ever the great strong hands were set
At their horny leverage, bloody-wet;
And ever steadier pressed the hold,
And ever the wild eyes wilder rolled
As the thick neck turned, and the great hulk grew
Like an o'er-fed engine, shuddering through—
Yet the thick neck turned—and turned—and turned—

Till the raw tongue shot from the throat and burned The live air foul; and the beast lurched dead Crunchingly.

... And the youngster said That the big man just lay there and cried— He was so sorry and satisfied!

RABBIT

I S'POSE it takes a feller 'at's be'n Raised in a country-town, like me, To 'preciate rabbits! . . . Eight er ten Bellerin' boys and two er three Yelpin' dawgs all on the trail O' one little pop-eyed cottontail!

'Bout the first good fall o' snow—
So's you kin track 'em, don't you know,
Where they've run,—and one by one
Hop 'em up and chase 'em down
And prod 'em out of a' old bresh-pile
Er a holler log they're a-hidin' roun',
Er, way en-nunder the ricked cord-wood
Er crosstie-stack by the railroad track
'Bout a mile
Out o' sight o' the whole ding town! . . .
Well! them's times 'at I call good!

Rabbits!—w'y, as my thoughts goes back To them old boyhood days o' mine, I kin sic him now and see "Old Jack" A-plowin' snow in a rabbit-track And a-pitchin' over him, head and heels,
Like a blame' hat-rack,
As the rabbit turns fer the timber-line
Down the County Ditch through the old cornfields. . . .

Yes, and I'll say right here to you,
Rabbits that boys has earnt, like that—
Skinned and hung fer a night or two
On the old back-porch where the pump's done froze—

Then fried 'bout right, where your brekfust's at, With hot brown gravy and shortenin' bread,—Rabbits, like them—er I ort to 'a' said, I s'pose, Rabbits like those Ain't so p'ticalar pore, I guess, Fer eatin' purposes!

A SPRING SONG AND A LATER

SHE sang a song of May for me,
Wherein once more I heard
The mirth of my glad infancy—
The orchard's earliest bird—
The joyous breeze among the trees
New-clad in leaf and bloom,
And there the happy honey-bees
In dewy gleam and gloom.

So purely, sweetly on the sense
Of heart and spirit fell
Her song of Spring, its influence—
Still irresistible,—
Commands me here—with eyes ablur—
To mate her bright refrain,
Though I but shed a rhyme for her
As dim as Autumn rain.

OURS

LOUISVILLE, KENTUCKY, DECEMBER 8, 1906

READ AT A BANQUET IN HONOR OF HENRY WATTERSON
UPON HIS DEPARTURE FOR SPAIN

HERE where of old was heard
The ringing, singing word
That orator and bard
Alike set free
To soar, through heights profound,
Our land's remotest bound,
Till all is holy ground
From sea to sea—

Here still, with voice and pen,
ONE cheers the hopes of men
And gives us faith again—
This gifted one
We hold here as the guest
Most honored—loved the best—
Wisest and worthiest—
Our Watterson.

2180

His spirit is the Seer's—
For, though he sees and hears
Through human doubts and fears,
His heart is one
With Earth's and the Divine—
With his home-hearts—and mine—
And the child's heart is thine,
Our Watterson!

Give us to touch and praise
His worth in subtlest ways,
Lest even our fondest gaze
He fain would shun—
Laugh, though a mist appears—
The glad wine salt with tears—
Laugh, as we drain it—"Here's
Our Watterson!"

OLD INDIANY

Intended for a Dinner of The Indiana Society of Chicago

LD Indiany, 'course we know Is first, and best, and most, also, Of all the States' whole forty-four:-She's first in ever'thing, that's shore!-And best in ever'way as yet Made known to man; and you kin bet She's most, because she won't confess She ever was, or will be, less! And yet, fer all her proud array Of sons, how many gits away!-No doubt about her bein' great But, fellers, she's a leaky State! And them that boasts the most about Her, them's the ones that's dribbled out. Law! jes' to think of all you boys 'Way over here in Illinoise A-celebratin', like ye air, Old Indiany, 'way back there In the dark ages, so to speak, A-prayin' for ye once a week And wonderin' what's a-keepin' you From comin', like you ort to do. You're all a-lookin' well, and like

You wasn't "sidin' up the pike," As the tramp-shoemaker said When "he sacked the boss and shed The blame town, to hunt fer one Where they didn't work fer fun!" Lookin' extry well, I'd say, Your old home so fur away.-Maybe, though, like the old jour... Fun hain't all ver workin' fer. So you've found a job that pays Better than in them old days You was on The Weekly Press, Heppin' run things, more er less; Er a-learnin' telegraph-Operatin', with a half-Notion of the tinner's trade. Er the dusty man's that laid Out designs on marble and Hacked out little lambs by hand, And chewed finecut as he wrought, "Shapin' from his bitter thought" Some squshed mutterings to say,— "Yes, hard work, and porer pay!" Er you'd kind o' thought the far-Gazin' kuss that owned a car And took pictures in it, had Jes' the snap you wanted-bad! And you even wondered why He kep' foolin' with his sky-Light the same on shiny days As when rainin'. ('T leaked always.) Wondered what strange things was hid In there when he shet the door And smelt like a burnt drug store Next some orchard-trees, i swan! With whole roasted apples on! That's why Ade is, here of late, Buyin' in the dear old state,—So's to cut it up in plots Of both town and country lots.

LONGFELLOW

1807—FEBRUARY 27—1907

GENTLEST kinsman of Humanity!
Thy love hath touched all hearts, even as thy
Song

Hath touched all chords of music that belong
To the quavering heaven-strung harp of harmony:
Thou hast made man to feel and hear and see
Divinely;—made the weak to be the strong;
By thy melodious magic, changed the wrong
To changeless right—and joyed and wept as we.
Worlds listen, lulled and solaced at the spell
That folds and holds us—soul and body, too,—
As though thy songs, as loving arms in stress
Of sympathy and trust ineffable,

Were thrown about us thus by one who knew Of common human need of kindliness.

WITH A CHILD-BOOK

TO MASTER PRESTON FROM HIS LONG INVISIBLE
PLAYMATE

THERE is LORE of more devices,
And ROMANCE that more entices
Higher minds and higher prices;—
But, for "Giggle-boy" or "Cry-sis"
(With some sniffless interstices)
Here's a little tale suffices—
Sweet as oranges in slices
Slobbed in slues o' cream and ices,
Tanged with tingling, spangling spices.—
Ho! there's no tale half so nice as
This Old Tailor and his Mice is!

THE DOCTOR

He took the suffering human race,
He read each wound, each weakness clear;
And struck his finger on the place,
And said: "Thou ailest here, and here!"
—MATTHEW ARNOLD

WE may idealize the chief of men—
Idealize the humblest citizen,—
Idealize the ruler in his chair—
The poor man, or the poorer millionaire;
Idealize the soldier—sailor—or
The simple man of peace—at war with war;—
The hero of the sword or fife-and-drum. . . .
Why not idealize the Doctor some?

The Doctor is, by principle, we know,
Opposed to sentiment. He veils all show
Of feeling, and is proudest when he hides
The sympathy which natively abides
Within the stoic precincts of a soul
Which owns strict duty as its first control,
And so must guard the ill, lest worse may come. . . .

Why not idealize the Doctor some?

He is the master of emotions—he
Is likewise certain of that mastery,—
Or dare he face contagion in its ire,
Or scathing fever in its leaping fire?
He needs must smile upon the ghastly face
That yearns up toward him in that warded place

Where even the Saint-like Sisters' lips grow dumb.

Why not idealize the Doctor some?

He wisely hides his heart from you and me—He hath grown tearless, of necessity,—He knows the sight is clearer, being blind; He knows the cruel knife is very kind; Ofttimes he must be pitiless, for thought Of the remembered wife or child he sought To save through kindness that was overcome. Why not idealize the Doctor some?

Bear with him, trustful, in his darkest doubt Of how the mystery of death comes out; He knows—he knows,—ay, better yet than we, That out of Time must dawn Eternity; He knows his own compassion—what he would Give in relief of all ills, if he could.—We wait alike one Master: He will come. Do we idealize the Doctor some?

ABE MARTIN

ABE MARTIN!—dad-burn his old picture!
P'tends he's a Brown County fixture—
A kind of a comical mixture
Of hoss-sense and no sense at all!
His mouth, like his pipe, 's allus goin',
And his thoughts, like his whiskers, is flowin',
And what he don't know ain't wuth knowin'—

From Genesis clean to baseball!

The artist, Kin Hubbard, 's so keerless
He draws Abe 'most eyeless and earless,
But he's never yet pictured him cheerless
Er with fun 'at he tries to conceal,—
Whuther on to the fence er clean over
A-rootin' up ragweed er clover,
Skeert stiff at some "Rambler" er "Rover"
Er newfangled automobeel!

It's a purty steep climate old Brown's in;
And the rains there his ducks nearly drowns in
The old man hisse'f wades his rounds in
As ca'm and serene, mighty nigh

As the old handsaw-hawg, er the mottled Milch cow, er the old rooster wattled Like the mumps had him 'most so well throttled That it was a pleasure to die.

But best of 'em all's the fool-breaks 'at
Abe don't see at all, and yit makes 'at Both me and you lays back and shakes at
His comic, miraculous cracks
Which makes him—clean back of the power
Of genius itse'f in its flower—
This Notable Man of the Hour,
Abe Martin, The Joker on Facts.

MORNING

BREATH of Morning—breath of May—With your zest of yesterday
And crisp, balmy freshness, smite
Our old hearts with Youth's delight.

Tilt the cap of Boyhood—yea, Where no "forelock" waves, to-day,— Back, in breezy, cool excess, Stroke it with the old caress.

Let us see as we have seen— Where all paths are dewy-green, And all human-kind are kin— Let us be as we have been!

THE LOVELINESS

AH, what a long and loitering way
And ever-lovely way, in truth,
We travel on from day to day
Out of the realms of youth!

How eagerly we onward press
The lovely path that lures us still
With ever-changing loveliness
Of grassy vale and hill:

Of groves of May and morning-lands
Dew-diamonded and gemmed with bloom,
With amber streams and golden sands
And aisles of gleam and gloom;

Where lovely little Fairy-folk, In careless ambush, pipe and call From tousled ferns 'neath elm and oak By shoal and waterfall:

Transparent even as the stream, The gnarlèd prison-tree reveals Its lovely Dryad in a dream That scarce itself conceals; The sudden redbird trips the sight
And tricks the ear—or doubtless we
With happy palms had clapped the Sprite
In new captivity.

On—on, through all the gathering years, Still gleams the loveliness, though seen Through dusks of loss and mists of tears That vainly intervene.

Time stints us not of lovely things—
Old Age hath still a treasure-store,—
The loveliness of songs and wings
And voices on before.—

And—loveliness beyond all grace
Of lovely words to say or sing,—
The loveliness of Hope's fair face
Forever brightening.

A PARTING GUEST

HAT delightful hosts are they—
Life and Love!
Lingeringly I turn away,
This late hour, yet glad enough
They have not withheld from me
Their high hospitality.
So, with face lit with delight
And all gratitude, I stay
Yet to press their hands and say,
"Thanks.—So fine a time! Good night."

"OUT OF REACH"

YOU think them "out of reach," your dead?
Nay, by my own dead, I deny
Your "out of reach."—Be comforted:
"Tis not so far to die.

O by their dear remembered smiles
And outheld hands and welcoming speech,
They wait for us, thousands of miles
This side of "out of reach."

MY FOE

A term so dark to designate you by.

To me you are most kind and true; and I
Am grateful as the dust is for the dews
That brim the dusk, and falter, drip and ooze
From the dear darkness of the summer sky.
Vex not yourself for lack of moan or cry
Of mine. Not any harm, nor ache nor bruise
Could reach my soul through any stroke you fain
Might launch upon me,—it were as the lance
Even of the lightning did it leap to rend
A ray of sunshine—'twould recoil again.
So, blessing you, with pitying countenance,
I wave a hand to you, my helpless friend.

SOME IMITATIONS

Ι

POMONA

(Madison Cawein)

H, the golden afternoon!—
Like a ripened summer day
That had fallen oversoon
In the weedy orchard-way—
As an apple, ripe in June.

He had left his fishrod leant
O'er the footlog by the spring—
Clomb the hill-path's high ascent,
Whence a voice, down showering,
Lured him, wondering as he went.

Not the voice of bee nor bird,
Nay, nor voice of man nor child,
Nor the creek's shoal-alto heard
Blent with warblings sweet and wild
Of the midstream, music-stirred.

'Twas a goddess! As the air Swirled to eddying silence, he Glimpsed about him, half aware Of some subtle sorcery Woven round him everywhere.

Suavest slopes of pleasaunce, sown
With long lines of fruited trees
Weighed o'er grasses all unmown
But by scythings of the breeze
In prone swaths that flashed and shone

Like silk locks of Faunus sleeked
This, that way, and contrawise,
Through whose bredes ambrosial leaked
Oily amber sheens and dyes,
Starred with petals purple-freaked.

Here the bellflower swayed and swung, Greenly belfried high amid Thick leaves in whose covert sung Hermit-thrush, or katydid, Or the glowworm nightly clung.

Here the damson, peach and pear; There the plum, in Tyrian tints, Like great grapes in clusters rare; And the metal-heavy quince Like a plummet dangled there. All ethereal, yet all
Most material,—a theme
Of some fabled festival—
Save the fair face of his dream
Smiling o'er the orchard wall.

THE PASSING OF A ZEPHYR

(Sidney Lanier)

U P from, and out of, and over the opulent woods and the plains,

Lo! I leap nakedly loose, as the nudest of gods might choose,

For to dash me away through the morning dews And the rathe Spring rains—

Pat and pet the little green leaves of the trees and the grass,

Till they seem to linger and cling, as I pass,

And are touched to delicate contemporaneous tears of the rain and the dew,

That lure mine eyes to weeping likewise, and to laughter, too:

For I am become as the balmiest, stormiest zephyr of Spring,

With manifold beads of the marvelous dew and the rain to string

On the bended strands of the blossoms, blown And tossed and tousled and overthrown.

H-16

And shifted and whirled, and lifted unfurled In the victory of the blossoming
Of the flags of the flowery world.
Yea, and behold! and a riotous zephyr, at last,
I subside; I abate; I pass by; I am past.
And the small, hoarse bass of the bumblebee
Is my requiem-psalm,

And I fling me down to a listless, loitering, long eternity

Of amiable calm.

EF UNCLE REMUS PLEASE TER 'SCUSEN ME

(Joel Chandler Harris)

DEY wunce wuz er time which I gwineter tell you 'bout it—

An' it's easy ter believe it sho'ly ez it is ter doubt it!—

So des you pick yer "ruthers" whilse I tell how ole Br'er Rabbit

Wunce know de time when he git de fightin' habit. Co'se he ain't no bragger, des a-rippin' an' a-rarin' An' a-darin' all de beestus an' a-des a-double-darin' Sich ez Mr. Jonus Lion, er Sir Mr. Twister Tagger, Er Sister Hisstopottomus, er A'nt Ferjinny Ja'gger! Yit, des de same, he layin' low an' know he got de muscle

What sho' ter s'prise mos' any size what crowd 'im fer a tussle.—

But speshully he 'spise de Dawg, an' sight er one des make 'im

Fergit hisse'f an' run 'em down an' grab 'em up an' shake 'em!—

An', mo' 'n dat, ef 'twuzn't fer de Dawg-law den ag'in' it,

He'd des a-kilt off ev'y Dawg dat's chasin' him dis minute!

A RHYME FOR CHRISTMAS

TF Browning only were here, I This yule-ish time o' the year— This mule-ish time o' the year. Stubbornly still refusing To add to the rhymes we've been using Since the first Christmas-glee (One might say) chantingly Rendered by rudest hinds Of the pelt-clad shepherding kinds Who didn't know Song from b-U-double-l's-foot !--pah !--(Haply the old Egyptian ptah-Though I'd hardly wager a baw-Bee-or a bumble, for that-And that's flat!) . . . But the thing that I want to get at Is a rhyme for Christmas-Nay! nay! nay! not isthmus— The t- and the h-sounds covertly are Gnawing the nice auricular

Senses until one may hear them gnar-And the terminal, too, for mas is mus. So that will not do for us. Try for it-sigh for it-cry for it-die for it! O but if Browning were here to apply for it. He'd rhyme you Christmas-He'd make a mist bass Over-something o' ruther-Or find you the rhyme's very brother In lovers that kissed fast To baffle the moon—as he'd lose the t-final In fas-t as it blended with to (mark the spinal Elision—tip-clipt as exquisitely nicely And hyper-exactingly sliced to precisely The extremest technical need): Or he'd twist glass. Or he'd have a kissed lass. Or shake 'neath our noses some great giant fist-

Mass—
No matter! If Robert were here, he could do it,
Though it took us till Christmas next year to see through it.

SERENADE AT THE CABIN

Oh, my little Sadie Sue, I's a-serenadin' you—
Fer you's de onliest lady-love o' mine;
De White Folk's dance done over, I has still a chune er two

Below your winder's mohnin'-glory-vine.

Your good ole mammy's gyarden is, fer shore, a ha'nted place,

Dis midnight whilse I's cropin' 'mongst de bloom; Yit de moon dah 'bove de chimbly ain' no fairer dan de face

What's hidin' 'hind de curtain o' your room.

Chorus

Den wake, my colored blonde with eyes o' blue,

An' lips ez red ez roses renshed with dew;

Yo' hair ez fair an' fine

Ez de skeins o' June sunshine,

My little, light-complected Sadie Sue!

In de "Gran's" old dinin'-hall, playin' fer de White Folk's ball,

I watch deir pick o' ladies ez dev glide,

An' says I, "My Sadie Sue she 'ud shorely best you all

Ef she 'uz here a-waltzin' by my side!"

Den I laugh all to myse'f-like, ez I swipe de twangin' strings

An' shet my eyes in sweetest dreams o' you,-

Fer you're my heart's own music dat forever beats an' sings—

My soul's own serenade-my Sadie Sue!

Chorus

Den wake, my colored blonde with eyes o' blue,
An' lips ez red ez roses renshed with dew;
Yo' hair ez fair an' fine
Ez de skeins o' June sunshine,
My little, light-complected Sadie Sue!

CHUCK'S HOODOOS

Chuck's allus had de Hoodoos bad!—
Do what he kin to lose 'em,
Dey track dat coon, by sun er moon,
Des like dey cain't uxcuse 'im!
An' more he gyaurd 'em off, more hard
Hit 'pear-like dat they press 'im—
De onliest luck dey 'low ole Chuck
Is dis enough to 'stress 'im!

He taken care—no matter where
He's walkin' 'long de street an'
See any ladder leanin' there,
Er cross-eyed man he's meetin'—
Dat eye o' his ketch wher' dey is,
An', quick as "scat," Chuck's hittin'
De curb outside, an' watch wile-eyed
Fust lef'-han' place to spit in!

He' got toenails o' bats; an' snails
Shet hot in deir shell-houses
Wid sealin'-wax; an' little backs
O' turkles in his trouse's:
A moleskin-pu's'; an' possum's han'—
Des ever' charm an' wonder—
An' barber-chair o' shore hosshair—
An' hoss-shoe hangin' under!

"An' yit," says Chuck, "I got no luck:—
De Hoodoos still a-bafflin'
Dis po' ole saint what knows he ain't—
'Twix' shootin' craps an' rafflin'!
No overcoat—ner underwear,—
Right on de aidge o' winter
I's up aginst de wust layout
Dey's ever got me inter!"

THE ROSE-LADY

TO THE ROSES

I DREAM that you are kisses Allah sent
In forms material, that all the earth
May taste of you and guess of Heaven's worth,
Since it can waste such sweetness with content,—
Seeing you showered o'er the Battlement—
By Angel-hands plucked ripe from lips of mirth
And flung in lavish clusters, yet no dearth
Of rapture for the Anthem! . . . I have bent
Above you, nestled in some low retreat,
Pressing your velvet mouths against the dust,
And, ever nurturing this old conceit,
Have lifted up your lips in perfect trust
Against my mouth, nor found them the less sweet
For having kissed the dust beneath my feet.

A HOOSIER CALENDAR

JANUARY

BLEAK January! Cold as fate,
And ever colder—ever keener—
Our very hair cut while we wait
By winds that clip it ever cleaner:
Cold as a miser's buried gold,
Or nether-deeps of old tradition—
Jeems January! you're a cold
Proposition!

FEBRUARY

You, February,—seem to be
Old January's understudy,
But play the part too vaudeville-y,—
With wind too moist and snow too muddy—
You overfreeze and overthaw—
Your "Hos'ler Jo"-like recitation
But hints that you're, at best, a raw Imitation.

MARCH

And, March, you've got no friends to spare— Warm friends, I mean—unless coal-dealers, Or gas-well owners, pipin' where The piper's paid—above all spielers; You are a month, too, of complex Perversities beyond solution— A sort o' "loveliest of your sex" Institution!

APRIL

But, April, when you kind o' come
A-sa'nterin' down along our roadway,
The bars is down, and we're at home,
And you're as welcome as a show-day!
First thing we know, the sunshine falls
Spring-like, and drenches all Creation
With that-'ere ba'm the poets calls
"Inspiration."

MAY

And May!—It's warmin' jest to see
The crick thawed clear ag'in and dancin'—
'Pear-like it's tickled 'most as me
A-prancin' 'crosst it with my pants on!
And then to hear the bluebird whet
His old song up and lance it through you,
Clean through the boy's heart beatin' yet—
Hallylooya!

JUNE

June—'Ll, I jest git doped on June!—
The trees and grass all at their greenest—
The round earth swung 'twixt sun and moon,
Jest at its—so to say—serenest:—

In country,—stars and whipperwills;
In town,—all night the boys invadin'
Leadin' citizens' winder-sills,
Sair-a-nadin'.

JULY

Fish still a-bitin'—some; but 'most
Too hot fer anything but layin'
Jest do-less like, and watchin' clos't
The treetops and the squirrels playin'—
Their tail-tips switched 'bove knot and limb,
But keepin' most in sequestration—
Leavin' a big part to the imMagination.

AUGUST

Now when it's August—I can tell
It by a hundred signs and over;—
They is a mixed ripe-apple-smell
And mashed-down grass and musty clover;
Bees is as lazy 'most as me—
Bee-bird eats 'em—gap's his wings out
So lazy 'at I don't think he Spits their stings out!

SEPTEMBER

September, you appeal to all,
Both young and old, lordly and lowly;
You stuff the haymow, trough and stall,
Till horse and cow's as roly-poly

As pigs is, slopped on buttermilk

And brand, shipstuff and 'tater-peelin's—

And folks, too, feelin' fine as silk

With all their feelin's!

OCTOBER

If I'd be'n asked for my advice,
And thought the thing out, ca'm and sober—
Sizin' the months all once or twice,—
I'd la'nch'd the year out with October. . . .
All Nature then jest veiled and dressed
In weddin' gyarments, ornamented
With ripe-fruit-gems—and kissin' jest
New-invented!

NOVEMBER

I'm 'feared November's hopes is few
And far between!—Cold as a MondayWashday, er a lodge-man who
You' got to pallbear for on Sunday;
Colder and colder every day—
The fixed official time for sighin',—
A sinkin' state you jest can't stay
In, or die in!

DECEMBER

December—why, of course we grin
And bear it—shiverin' every minute,
Yet warm from time the month rolls in
Till it skites out with Christmas in it;

And so, for all its coldest truths

And chill, goose-pimpled imperfections,
It wads our lank old socks with Youth's

Recollections.

THE LITTLE WOMAN

MY little woman, of you I sing
With a fervor all divine,—
For I know the clasp of the hands that cling
So closely here in mine.

Though the rosy palms I used to press
Are faded and worn with care,
And tremulous is the old caress
That nestles in my hair,—

Your heart to me is a changeless page;
I have read it bit by bit,
From the dawn of love to the dusk of age,
And the tale is Holy Writ.

Fold your eyes,—for the twilight bends
As a mother o'er her child—
Even as when, in the long-lost Then,
You bent o'er ours and smiled. . . .

(Nay, but I spoke all unaware! See! I am kneeling, too, And with mine, dear, is the rose's prayer, With a blur of tears and dew.) But O little woman, I often grieve,
As I think of the vanished years
And trace the course of the cares that leave
Your features dim with tears:

I often grieve, for the frowns I wore
When the world seemed all untrue,—
When my hard, proud heart was sick and sore
And would not come to you!

I often grieve, as I hold your hand—
As I hold your hand to-night,—
That it takes so long to understand
The lesson of love aright!

But sing the song that I taught you once, Dear little woman, as then

Away far back in the golden months:—

Sing me the song again!

For, as under the stars we loved of yore
When the nights of love were long,
Your poor, pale lips grow glad once more
And I kiss them into song:—

My little woman's hands are fair
As even the moonflowers be
When fairies creep in their depths and sleep
Till the sun leaps out o' the sea.

And O her eyes, they are spheres of light— So brighter than stars are they, The brightest day is the darkest night When my little woman's away.

For my little woman has ever a tear
And a sigh when I am sad;
And I have a thousand smiles for her
When my little woman is glad.

But my little woman is strong and brave,
For all of her tears and sighs,
Her stanch little heart knows how to behave
Whenever the storms arise.

My little woman, of you I sing
With a fervor all divine,—
For I know the clasp of the hands that cling
So closely here in mine.

WHAT TITLE?

7HAT title best befits the man We hold our first American? Or Statesman; Soldier; Hero; Chief, . Whose Country is his first belief: Or sanest, safest Leader; or True Patriot; or Orator, Heard still at Inspiration's height, Because he speaks for truth and right: Or shall his people be content With Our Republic's President, Or trust his ringing worth to live In song as Chief Executive? Nay-his the simplest name-though set Upon him like a coronet.-God names our first American The highest, noblest name—The MAN.

YOU MAY NOT REMEMBER

In the deep grave's charmed chamber, Lying tranced in breathless slumber, You may haply not remember.

YOU may not remember whether
It was Spring or Summer weather;
But I know—we two together
At the dim end of the day—
How the fireflies in the twilight
Drifted by like flakes of starlight,
Till o'er floods of flashing moonlight
They were wave-like swept away.

You may not remember any Word of mine of all the many
Poured out for you there, though then a
Soul inspired spake my love;—
But I knew—and still review it,
All my passion, as with awe it
Welled in speech as from a poet
Gifted of the gods above.

Sleeping here, this hour I grieve in, You may not remember even Any kiss I still believe in, Or caress of ecstasy,— May not even dream—O can't you?—
That I kneel here—weep here—want you—
Feign me in your grave, to haunt you,
Since you come not back to me!

Vain! ah, vain is all my yearning
As the West's last embers burning
Into ashes, slowly turning
Ever to a denser gray!—
While the fireflies in the twilight
Drift about like flakes of starlight,
Till o'er wastes of wannest moonlight
They are wave-like swept away.

THE REST

V. K .- NATURALIST

HE rests at last, as on the mother-breast
The playworn child at evening lies at rest,—
For he, a buoyant child, in veriest truth,
Has looked on life with eyes of changeless youth:—
Has loved our green old earth here from the hour
Of his first memory of bud and flower—
Of morning's grassy lawns and dewy trees
And orchard-blossoms, singing birds and bees:

When all the world about him was a land Elysian, with the mother near at hand:
With steadfast gaze of wonder and delight
He marked the miracles of day and night:—
Beheld the kingly sun, in dazzling reign
By day; and, with her glittering, glimmering train
Of stars, he saw the queenly moon possess
Her throne in midmost midnight's mightiness.

All living least of things he ever knew
Of mother Earth's he was a brother to:
The lone rose by the brook—or, under, where
The swaying water-liles anchored there;

His love dipped even to the glossy things That walked the waters and forgot their wings In sheer insanity of some delight Known but to that ecstatic parasite.

It was enough, thus childishly to sense All works—since worthy of Omnipotence—As worshipful: Therefor, as any child, He knelt in tenderness of tears, or smiled His gratefulness, as to a playmate glad To share His pleasures with a poorer lad. And so he lived: And so he died?—Ah, no, We'll not believe that till he tells us so.

WE MUST BELIEVE

Lord, I believe: help Thou mine unbelief.

I

E must believe—
Being from birth endowed with love and trust—

Born unto loving;—and how simply just
That love—that faith!—even in the blossom-face
The babe drops dreamward in its resting-place,
Intuitively conscious of the sure
Awakening to rapture ever pure
And sweet and saintly as the mother's own
Or the awed father's, as his arms are thrown
O'er wife and child, to round about them weave
And wind and bind them as one harvest-sheaf
Of love—to cleave to, and forever cleave. . . .

Lord, I believe:

Help Thou mine unbelief.

II

We must believe—
Impelled since infancy to seek some clear
Fulfilment, still withheld all seekers here;—
For never have we seen perfection nor
The glory we are ever seeking for:
But we have seen—all mortal souls as one—
Have seen its promise, in the morning sun—

Its blest assurance, in the stars of night;—
The ever-dawning of the dark to light;—
The tears down-falling from all eyes that grieve—
The eyes uplifting from all deeps of grief,
Yearning for what at last we shall receive. . . .

Lord, I believe:

Help Thou mine unbelief.

III

We must believe:

For still all unappeased our hunger goes,
From life's first waking, to its last repose:
The briefest life of any babe, or man
Outwearing even the allotted span,
Is each a life unfinished—incomplete:
For these, then, of th' outworn, or unworn feet
Denied one toddling step—O there must be
Some fair, green, flowery pathway endlessly
Winding through lands Elysian! Lord, receive
And lead each as Thine Own Child—even the

Of us who didst Immortal life achieve. . . . Lord, I believe:

Help Thou mine unbelief.

THE HIRED MAN'S DOG-STORY

Twa dogs that were no throng at hame Forgather'd ance upon a time.

-BURNS

OGS, I contend, is jes' about Nigh human-git 'em studied out. I hold, like us, they've got their own Reasonin' powers 'at's theirs alone-Same as their tricks and habits too. Provin', by lots o' things they do, That instinct's not the only thing That dogs is governed by, i jing!-And I'll say furder, on that line, And prove it, that they's dogs a-plenty

Will show intelligence as fine As ary ten men out o' twenty!

Jevver investigate the way Sheep-killin' dogs goes at it-hey? Well, you dig up the facts and you Will find, first thing, they's always two Dogs goes together on that spree O' blood and puore dog-deviltry! And, then, they always go at nightMind ye, it's never in daylight,
When folks is up and wide awake,—
No self-respectin' dogs'll make Mistakes o' judgment on that score,—
And I've knowed fifty head or more
O' slaughtered sheep found in the lot,
Next morning the old farmer got
His folks up and went out to feed,—
And every livin' soul agreed
That all night long they never heerd
The bark o' dog ner bleat o' skeered
And racin', tromplin' flock o' sheep
A-skallyhootin' roun' the pastur',

A-skallyhootin' roun' the pastur',
To rouse 'em from their peaceful sleep
To that heart-renderin' disaster!

Well, now, they's actchul evidence In all these facts set forth; and hence When, by like facts, it has been foun' That these two dogs—colloguin' roun' At night as thick as thieves—by day Don't go together anyway, And, 'pearantly, hain't never met Each other; and the facts is set On record furder, that these smart Old pards in crime lives miles apart—Which is a trick o' theirs, to throw Off all suspicion, don't you know!—One's a town-dog—belongin' to Some good man, maybe—er to you!—And one's a country-dog, er "jay,"

As you nickname us thataway.

Well, now!—these is the facts I' got

(And, mind ye, these is facts—not guesses)

To argy on, concernin' what Fine reasonin' powers dogs p'sesses.

My idy is,—the dog lives in The town, we'll say, runs up ag'in The country-dog, some Saturday, Under a' old farm-wagon, say, Down at the Court-house hitchin'-rack.-Both lifts the bristles on their back And show their teeth and growl as though They meant it pleasant-like and low. In case the fight hangs fire. And they Both wag then in a friendly way, The town-dog savin':- "Seems to me, Last Dimocratic jubilee, I seen you here in town somewhere?" The country-dog says :- "Right you air !-And right here's where you seen me, too, Under this wagon, watchin' you!" "Yes," says the town-dog,-"and I thought We'd both bear watchin', like as not." And as he yawns and looks away, The country-dog says, "What's your lay?" The town-dog whets his feet a spell And yawns ag'in, and then says,-"Well, Before I answer that-Ain't you

A Mill Crick dog, a mile er two From old Chape Clayton's stock-farm—say?" "Who told you? says the jay-dog—"hey?" And looks up, real su'prised. "I auessed." The town-dog says—"You tell the rest.— How's old Chape's mutton, anyhow?— How many of 'em's ready now-How many of 'em's ripe enough fer use, And how's the hot, red, rosy juice?" "'Mm!" say the country-dog, "I think I sort o' see a little blink O' what you mean" And when he stops And turns and looks up street and lops His old wet tongue out, and says he. Lickin' his lips, all slobbery, "Ad-drat my melts! you're jes' my man!— I'll trust you, 'cause I know I can!" And then he says, "I'll tell you jes' How things is, and Chape's carelessness About his sheep,—fer instance, say, To-morry Chapes'll all be 'way To Sund'y-meetin'-and ag'in At night." "At night? That lets us in !-'Better the day' "-the town-dog says-"'Better the deed.' We'll pray; Lord, yes!— May the outpourin' grace be shed Abroad, and all hearts comforted Accordin' to their lights!" says he, "And that, of course, means you and me." And then they both snarled, low and quietSwore where they'd meet. And both stood by it!

Tes' half-past eight on Sund'v night. Them two dogs meets,—the town-dog, light O' foot, though five mile' he had spanned O' field, beech-wood and bottom-land, But, as books says,—we draw a veil Over this chapter of the tale! . . . Yit when them two infernal, mean, Low, orn'ry whelps has left the scene O' carnage—chased and putt to death The last pore sheep,—they've yit got breath Enough to laugh and joke about The fun they've had, while they sneak out The woods-way fer the old crick where They both plunge in and wash their hair And rench their bloody mouths, and grin, As each one skulks off home ag'in-Jes' innardly too proud and glad

To keep theirselves from kind o' struttin', Thinkin' about the fun they'd had— When their blame wizzens needed cuttin'!

Dogs is deliber't.—They can bide
Their time till s'picions all has died.
The country-dog don't 'pear to care
Fer town no more,—he's off somewhere
When the folks whistles, as they head
The team t'ards town. As I jes' said,—
Dogs is deliber't, don't forgit!

So this-here dog he's got the grit To jes' deprive hisse'f o' town. For 'bout three weeks. But time rolls roun'! . . .

Same as they first met:—Saturday—
Same Court-house—hitch-rack—and same way

The team wuz hitched—same wagon where The same jay-dog growls under there When same town-dog comes loafin' by, With the most innocentest eye And giner'l meek and lowly style, As though he'd never cracked a smile In all his mortal days!—And both Them dogs is strangers, you'd take oath!—Both keeps a-lookin' sharp, to see If folks is watchin'—jes' the way

If folks is watchin'—jes' the way
They acted that first Saturday
They talked so confidentchully.

"Well"—says the town-dog, in a low And careless tone—"Well, whatch you know?"

"'Know?'" says the country-dog—"Lots more

Than some smart people knows—that's shore!"

And then, in his dog-language, he Explains how slick he had to be
When some suspicious folks come roun'
A-tryin' to track and run him down—
Like he'd had anything to do

With killin' over fifty head
O' sheep! "Jes' think!—and me"—he said,
"And me as innocent as you,
That very hour, five mile' away
In this town like you air to-day!"
"Ah!" says the town-dog, "there's the beauty
O' bein' prepared for what may be,
And washin' when you've done your duty!—
No stain o' blood on you er me
Ner wool in our teeth!—Then," says he,
"When wicked man has wronged us so,
We ort to learn to be forgivin'—
Half the world, of course, don't know
How the other gits its livin'!"

PERVERSITY

YOU have more'n likely noticed,
When you didn't when you could,
That jes' the thing you didn't do
Was jes' the thing you should.

HER POET-BROTHER

OH! what ef little childerns all
Wuz big as parunts is!
Nen I'd join pa's Masonic Hall
An' wear gold things like his!
An' you'd "receive," like ma, an' be
My "hostuss"—An', gee-whizz!
We'd alluz have ice-cream, ef we
Wuz big as parunts is!

Wiv all the money mens is got—
We'd buy a Store wiv that,—
Ist candy, pies an' cakes, an' not
No drygoods—'cept a hatAn'-plume fer you—an' "plug" fer me,
An' clothes like ma's an' his,
'At on'y ist fit us—ef we
Wuz big as parunts is!

An'—ef we had a little boy
An' girl like me an' you,—
Our Store'd keep ever' kind o' toy
They'd ever want us to!—

We'd hire "Old Kriss" to 'tend to be The boss of all the biz An' ist "charge" ever'thing—ef we Wuz big as parunts is!

GRAMPA'S CHOICE

FIRST and best of earthly joys, I like little girls and boys:
Which of all do I like best?
Why, the one that's happiest.

A LITTLE LAME BOY'S VIEWS

N 'Scursion-days—an' Shows—an' Fairs—
They ain't no bad folks anywheres!—
On street-cars—same as you—
Seems like somebody allus sees
I'm lame, an' takes me on their knees,
An' holds my crutches, too—
An' asts me what's my name, an' pays
My fare theirse'f—On all Big Days!

The mob all scrowdges you an' makes Enough o' bluffs, fer goodness-sakes!

But none of 'em ain't mad—
They're only lettin' on.—I know;—
An' I can tell you why it's so:

They're all of 'em too glad—
They're ever' one, jes' glad as me
To be there, er they wouldn't be!

The man that sells the tickets snoops
My "one-er" in, but sort o' stoops
An' grins out at me—then
Looks mean an' business-like an' sucks

His big mustache at me an' chucks
Too much change out again.—
He's a smooth citizen, an' yit
He don't fool me one little bit!

An' then, inside—fer all the jam—
Folks, seems-like, all knows who I am,
An' tips me nods an' winks;
An' even country-folks has made
Me he'p eat pie an' marmalade,
With bottled milk fer "drinks"!—
Folks all's so good to me that I—

Sometimes—I nearly purt' near' cry.

An' all the kids, high-toned er pore,
Seems better than they wuz before,
An' wants to kind o' "stand
In" with a feller—see him through
The free lay-out an' sideshows, too,
An' do the bloomin' "grand"!

On 'Scursion-days—an' Shows an' Fairs— They ain't no bad folks anywheres!

A VERY TALL BOY

THE ONE LONE LIMERICK OF UNCLE SIDNEY'S

SOME credulous chroniclers tell us
Of a very tall youngster named Ellis,
Whose Pa said, "Ma-ri-er,
If Bubb grows much higher,
He'll have to be trained up a trellis."

THE RAGGEDY MAN ON CHILDREN

HILDREN—take 'em as they run—You kin bet on, ev'ry one!—
Treat 'em right and reco'nize
Human souls is all one size.

Jevver think?—the world's best men Wears the same souls they had when They run barefoot—'way back where All these little children air.

Heerd a boy, not long ago, Say his parents sassed him so, He'd correct 'em, ef he could,— Then be good ef they'd be good.

'LIZABUTH-ANN ON BAKIN'-DAY

OUR Hired Girl, when it's bakin'-day
She's out o' patience allus,
An' tells us "Hike outdoors an' play,
An' when the cookies's done," she'll say,
"Land sake! she'll come an' call us!"
An' when the little doughbowl's all
Ist heapin'-full, she'll come an' call—
Nen say, "She ruther take a switchin'
Than have a pack o' pesky childern
Trackin' round the kitchen!"

GOLDIE GOODWIN

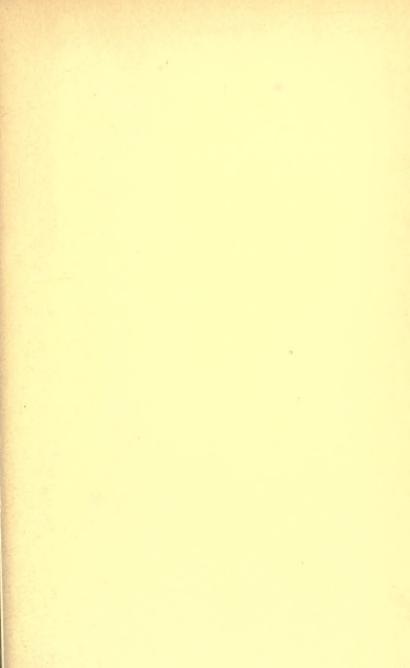

MY old Uncle Sidney he says it's a sign
All over the Worl', an' ten times out of nine,
He can tell by the name of a child ef the same
Is a good er bad youngun—ist knows by their name!—

So he says, "It's the vurry best sign in the Worl' That Goldie Goodwin is a good little girl,"—

An' says, "First she's gold—then she's good—an' behold, Good's 'bout 'leventy-hunnerd times better than gold!"
